HIST 34600 - Churchill's Britain (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Churchill's Britain

Catalog Description
This course looks at the history of Britain and its empire in the 20th century. The emphasis will be on the world wars and their impact on British military and diplomatic power, and thus on the spread of British imperial rule up to the 1920s, as well as on the changes the wars brought to the British economy, society and culture and, ultimately, the collapse of the empire after 1945. The major theme of the course will be how to understand Britain's 'decline' in the 20th century.

HIST 36300 - American Cultural History (3 cr)

General

Course Title
American Cultural History

Catalog Description
In this course we will explore several significant themes in American cultural history from the late nineteenth through the late twentieth centuries. Through close readings of selected primary and secondary works (both written and visual) we will consider the meanings of popular, proto-mass, and mass culture as well as the nature of different levels of cultural tastes and styles in modern American history. Reflecting on the broader social and political context of these developments we will study a range of topics, including the myth of the self-made man, the role of the frontier and the cowboy, and critiques of mass consumer culture. Central to our historical examination of American culture will be an effort to appraise and describe: how American writers, artists, orators, cultural critics and everyday people constructed narratives (written, spoken, musical, visual) of identity for themselves along ethnic, racial, gendered, class-based and national lines, how the construction of those narratives were related to each other and, how those narratives changed over time depending on specific political and social contexts.

Mathematics and Statistics Department

Overview

Mathematics has many aspects: it is the language and tool of the sciences, a cultural phenomenon with a rich historical tradition, and a model of abstract reasoning. The course offerings and the major in Mathematics reflect these multiple facets. The Mathematics major provides a broad education in various areas of mathematics in a program flexible enough to accommodate many ranges of interest. The major introduces students to the fundamental areas of mathematics and provides some degree of specialization in one or more areas. It trains students in the analytic thinking characteristic of pure and applied mathematics and provides familiarity with rigorous methods of mathematical proof. In addition to the standard Mathematics Major, the department offers a number of specialized undergraduate tracks for students interested in pursuing careers in bioinformatics or in preparing for teaching: the concentration Quantitative Biology, the concentration Preparation for Adolescent Education (Grades 7-12), and the concentration Preparation for Childhood Education (Grades 1-6).

What can I do with my degree in Mathematics and Statistics?

The Mathematics major prepares students for careers in business, government, research and teaching. The study of statistics provides the student with analytical tools that may find application in various fields within the sciences and social sciences. Bioinformatics is a rapidly developing area open to students in statistics with a working knowledge of computing and biological sciences. Actuarial science is one area open to students in statistics who also have backgrounds in such subjects as computer science, mathematics and economics.

Credit and Course Exemption

The department offers credit or course exemption based on standard examinations such as AP. Inquiries should be made at the department office.

Mathematics Proficiency and Placement

All students entering Hunter College must demonstrate proficiency in the basic skills through their scores on the mathematics assessment exam. Exemptions are given for SATs, ACT, NY Regents, and for certain other entrance categories. The placement exam further assesses a student's preparedness for certain courses in mathematics, statistics, and other disciplines at the college. Students may enroll in these courses only if their scores on the placement exam are at appropriate levels or if they have taken college courses in the required mathematics. Students who need to place into courses by examination and have not taken the placement exam are advised to schedule the test with the Testing Center, Room 150 Hunter North, 212-772-4868, http://hunter.cuny.edu/testingcenter, well in advance of registration. Students should notice the mathematics and statistics prerequisites that are indicated in the descriptions of courses and majors so they can effectively plan their studies.

Learning Outcomes: Mathematics BA/BA–MA

1. Students will demonstrate an understanding of the fundamental principles of major areas of mathematics including Calculus and Linear Algebra Abstract Algebra and Analysis and Probability and Statistics by explaining key concepts and theorems performing computations and solving problems.
2. Students will be able to reason mathematically and create and critique mathematical poofs that are clear complete and concise.
3. Students will demonstrate proficiency in symbolic computation.
4. Students will demonstrate the ability to think critically and apply mathematical principles to solve complex problems in pure and applied mathematics and other fields of study.

Learning Outcomes: Statistics BA

1. Students will demonstrate proficiency in the fundamentals of probability and statistical theory and methods by explaining key concepts and solving problems.
2. Students will be able to organize and present data effectively and use it to compute standard statistical summaries and analysis clearly and accurately.
3. Students will demonstrate the ability to think critically and apply statistical principles to solve complex problems in pure and applied statistics and other fields of study.

Additional Comments:
Students may take no more than two courses from one department or program to fulfill categories Common Core.

Transfer Students

- Transfer students who have earned an AA/AS degree from an accredited institution, including CUNY, and who matriculated in fall 2013 and after will have fulfilled the Common Core.

- For all other CUNY transfer students, any unmet Common Core requirements must be completed while matriculated at Hunter.
- Non-CUNY transfer students without an AA/AS degree should confer with their adviser to determine whether they have met CCC requirements.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - College Option/Hunter Focus

Type
Completion Requirement

Earn at least 12 credits
The Hunter Focus consists of 12 credits total. The composition of these credits will vary depending on the student's matriculation status and language proficiency. All students are required to complete the Foreign Language requirement; after that is met, students begin Concentrated Study.

Exceptions:

- Students in the School of Nursing may fulfill their entire 12 credits of Hunter Focus by taking three "STEM variant" science courses in addition to the STEM courses used to fulfill the Common Core.
- Students with a joint major in Education may fulfill their entire 12 credits with courses in Education.

Hunter Focus: Foreign Language

Students must attain fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language. For students with no prior language courses, this proficiency typically consists of completing four courses or a total of 12 credits. Students who have prior language courses, including those from high school, should consult an adviser. Students may apply only one course at each level (Elementary level 1, Elementary level 2, Intermediate level 3, and Intermediate level 4) toward the Hunter Focus. Intensive courses can be used to satisfy the two-course sequence at the Elementary and at the Intermediate levels.

Hunter Focus: Concentrated Study

Once students have completed the Foreign Language requirement, any credits remaining from the 12 required for the Hunter Focus will be used on Concentrated Study. Concentrated Study refers to courses that fulfill requirements for a declared minor, a second major or a certificate. The number of credits required for Concentrated Study ranges from 0-12 and is determined by the number of credits in a foreign language a student must take.

Students who first matriculate in a baccalaureate program must complete 12 credits of Hunter Focus. Any "College Option" credits completed at another CUNY senior college will be applied to the Hunter Focus.

Hunter Focus: Foreign Language

Transfer students must reach or work toward fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language. The number of credits needed to complete the Foreign Language requirement is determined by the student's transfer status, as defined above, and language proficiency at the time of matriculation. Students who have prior language courses, including those from high school, should consult an adviser.

Hunter Focus: Concentrated Study

Once transfer students have completed the Foreign Language requirement, any credits remaining from the Hunter Focus will be used on Concentrated Study as described above.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - Pluralism and Diversity

Type
Completion Requirement

Fulfill ALL of the following requirements:

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group A

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of non-European societies, particularly those of Africa, Asia, Latin America or those indigenous to the Americas.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group B

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives, immigrant experiences and/or intellectual traditions of one or more of the following groups in the United States of America: African Americans, Asian Americans, Latino Americans and Native Americans.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group C

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of women and/or issues of gender or sexual orientation.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group D

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of Europe, including the ways in which pluralism and diversity have been addressed.

Additional Comments:
Students must complete four courses designated for the Pluralism and Diversity Requirement, one from each of four categories. The four categories of Pluralism and Diversity focus on major practical or theoretical issues that emerge from, are reflected in, or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives, and/or intellectual traditions of the following:

A. Non-European societies, particularly those of Africa, Asia, Latin America, or those indigenous to the Americas;

B. One or more of the following groups in the US: African Americans, Asian Americans, Latino Americans, and Native Americans;

C. Women and/or issues of gender or sexual orientation;

D. Europe, including ways in which pluralism and diversity have been addressed.

Any one course with a Pluralism and Diversity designation can satisfy only one Pluralism and Diversity category but may also fulfill any other requirement.

Transfer Students

Transfer students must take at least two courses designated for different categories of the Pluralism and Diversity requirement. The number of courses required in Pluralism and Diversity is determined by the number of credits transferred.

Program Description

The BA/MA program offers promising students the opportunity to complete both the bachelor's and master's degree requirements with a minimum of 120 credits.

Requirements are the same as those for a major in the department, plus 30 credits at the graduate level. Interested students should contact the appropriate graduate advisor for further information regarding eligibility and curriculum requirements.

Option 1: BA/MA in Mathematics

Students complete the BA with a standard mathematics major, with 30 additional credits at the graduate level in mathematics following the Master of Arts in Pure Mathematics. Choice of courses are approved by the departmental graduate advisor.

Option 2: BA/MA Program in Statistics and Applied Mathematics

Students complete the BA with a standard major in statistics or mathematics, with 30 additional credits at the graduate level in Statistics and Mathematics, following the sequence of courses for one of the five available tracks: Statistics is Track I, Applied Mathematics is Track II, Biostatistics is Track III, Mathematical Finance is Track IV, and Statistical Data Science is Track V. The final choice of courses for each student is approved by the appropriate departmental graduate advisor. Students in Option 2 must complete a faculty supervised project.

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives, immigrant experiences and/or intellectual traditions of one or more of the following groups in the United States of America: African Americans, Asian Americans, Latino Americans and Native Americans.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group C

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of women and/or issues of gender or sexual orientation.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group D

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of Europe, including the ways in which pluralism and diversity have been addressed.

Additional Comments:
Students must complete four courses designated for the Pluralism and Diversity Requirement, one from each of four categories. The four categories of Pluralism and Diversity focus on major practical or theoretical issues that emerge from, are reflected in, or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives, and/or intellectual traditions of the following:

A. Non-European societies, particularly those of Africa, Asia, Latin America, or those indigenous to the Americas;

B. One or more of the following groups in the US: African Americans, Asian Americans, Latino Americans, and Native Americans;

C. Women and/or issues of gender or sexual orientation;

D. Europe, including ways in which pluralism and diversity have been addressed.

Any one course with a Pluralism and Diversity designation can satisfy only one Pluralism and Diversity category but may also fulfill any other requirement.

Transfer Students

Transfer students must take at least two courses designated for different categories of the Pluralism and Diversity requirement. The number of courses required in Pluralism and Diversity is determined by the number of credits transferred.

CREDITS TRANSFERRED	COURSES REQUIRED
Fewer than 31	4
31 or more	2

Any one course with a Pluralism and Diversity designation can only satisfy one Pluralism and Diversity category but may also fulfill any other requirement.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - Writing Intensive

Type
Completion Requirement

Complete at least 1 course in the following course sets:

- Writing Intensive

Transfer Students

Transfer students must take at least one Writing Intensive course, designated with a “W” in the catalog, at Hunter College. The number of Writing Intensive courses required is determined by the number of credits transferred.

- MATH15000 Calculus I
- MATH15200 Calc for Life and Soc Science

A student interested in actuarial work should take the following courses:

- MATH15000 Calculus I
- MATH15500 Calculus 2
- MATH15600 Intr Math Proof Wrks
- MATH25000 Calculus 3
- MATH26000 Linear Algebra
- STAT31100 Probability Theory
- STAT31300 Intro to Math Stat

Students are also encouraged to take courses in accounting, economics and computer science. A student majoring either in Statistics or Mathematics could also complete the Actuarial Sequence as a part of his/her major requirements. A review for the Actuarial Exams is not a part of the curriculum, however, and it is left to the individual student to study for and take those exams.

Program Description
The BA/MA program offers promising students the opportunity to complete both the bachelor's and master's requirements without a separate application for admissions or GRE requirement. Requirements are the same as those for a major in the department, plus 30 credits at the graduate level. Interested students should contact the graduate adviser for further information regarding eligibility and curriculum requirements.

General Education Requirements - Common Core

Type
Completion Requirement

Fulfill ALL of the following requirements:

Earn at least 6 credits from the following:
- Required Core English Composition

Students who receive an "exemption" for ENGL 12000 or for a course in English Comp 2 are deemed to have fulfilled English Composition 1 or 2, respectively.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Required Core Mathematical and Quantitative Reasoning

Some courses in this categories carry more than 3 credits (the "STEM variant" courses). Students who elect to take these courses may apply only three credits towards fulfilling the Common Core.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Required Core Life and Physical Sciences

Some courses in this categories carry more than 3 credits (the "STEM variant" courses). Students who elect to take these courses may apply only three credits towards fulfilling the Common Core.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Flexible Core Scientific World

Some courses in this categories carry more than 3 credits (the "STEM variant" courses). Students who elect to take these courses may apply only three credits towards fulfilling the Common Core.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Flexible Core Creative Expression

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

Additional Comments:
Students may take no more than two courses from one department or program to fulfill categories Common Core.

Transfer Students

- Transfer students who have earned an AA/AS degree from an accredited institution, including CUNY, and who matriculated in fall 2013 and after will have fulfilled the Common Core.

- For all other CUNY transfer students, any unmet Common Core requirements must be completed while matriculated at Hunter.
- Non-CUNY transfer students without an AA/AS degree should confer with their adviser to determine whether they have met CCC requirements.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - College Option/Hunter Focus

Type
Completion Requirement

Earn at least 12 credits
The Hunter Focus consists of 12 credits total. The composition of these credits will vary depending on the student's matriculation status and language proficiency. All students are required to complete the Foreign Language requirement; after that is met, students begin Concentrated Study.

Exceptions:

- Students in the School of Nursing may fulfill their entire 12 credits of Hunter Focus by taking three "STEM variant" science courses in addition to the STEM courses used to fulfill the Common Core.
- Students with a joint major in Education may fulfill their entire 12 credits with courses in Education.

Hunter Focus: Foreign Language

Students must attain fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language. For students with no prior language courses, this proficiency typically consists of completing four courses or a total of 12 credits. Students who have prior language courses, including those from high school, should consult an adviser. Students may apply only one course at each level (Elementary level 1, Elementary level 2, Intermediate level 3, and Intermediate level 4) toward the Hunter Focus. Intensive courses can be used to satisfy the two-course sequence at the Elementary and at the Intermediate levels.

Hunter Focus: Concentrated Study

Once students have completed the Foreign Language requirement, any credits remaining from the 12 required for the Hunter Focus will be used on Concentrated Study. Concentrated Study refers to courses that fulfill requirements for a declared minor, a second major or a certificate. The number of credits required for Concentrated Study ranges from 0-12 and is determined by the number of credits in a foreign language a student must take.

CREDITS OF FOREIGN LANGUAGE NEEDED	CREDITS OF CONCENTRATED STUDY NEEDED
3	9
6	6

For students who matriculated prior to fall 2019, these three credits are waived.*

For students who matriculated in fall 2019 or after, and who do not also complete a second major, minor, or certificate program, these three credits shall be from a course, at the 200-level or above, on a topic related to the language used for the Foreign Language requirement, in the target language or in English translation.*

Transfer Students

All transfer students must complete the Hunter Focus. For students who first matriculated in an associate program, the number of credits required in the Hunter Focus varies with the number of credits transferred.

CREDITS/DEGREES TRANSFERRED	CREDITS/REQUIRED
Fewer than 30	12
30 or more, without an AA/AS degree	9
AA/AS degree	6

Students who first matriculate in a baccalaureate program must complete 12 credits of Hunter Focus. Any "College Option" credits completed at another CUNY senior college will be applied to the Hunter Focus.

Hunter Focus: Foreign Language

Transfer students must reach or work toward fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language. The number of credits needed to complete the Foreign Language requirement is determined by the student's transfer status, as defined above, and language proficiency at the time of matriculation. Students who have prior language courses, including those from high school, should consult an adviser.

Hunter Focus: Concentrated Study

Once transfer students have completed the Foreign Language requirement, any credits remaining from the Hunter Focus will be used on Concentrated Study as described above.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - Pluralism and Diversity

Type
Completion Requirement

Fulfill ALL of the following requirements:

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group A

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of non-European societies, particularly those of Africa, Asia, Latin America or those indigenous to the Americas.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group B

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives, immigrant experiences and/or intellectual traditions of one or more of the following groups in the United States of America: African Americans, Asian Americans, Latino Americans and Native Americans.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group C

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of women and/or issues of gender or sexual orientation.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group D

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of Europe, including the ways in which pluralism and diversity have been addressed.

Additional Comments:
Students must complete four courses designated for the Pluralism and Diversity Requirement, one from each of four categories. The four categories of Pluralism and Diversity focus on major practical or theoretical issues that emerge from, are reflected in, or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives, and/or intellectual traditions of the following:

A. Non-European societies, particularly those of Africa, Asia, Latin America, or those indigenous to the Americas;

B. One or more of the following groups in the US: African Americans, Asian Americans, Latino Americans, and Native Americans;

C. Women and/or issues of gender or sexual orientation;

D. Europe, including ways in which pluralism and diversity have been addressed.

Any one course with a Pluralism and Diversity designation can satisfy only one Pluralism and Diversity category but may also fulfill any other requirement.

Transfer Students

Transfer students must take at least two courses designated for different categories of the Pluralism and Diversity requirement. The number of courses required in Pluralism and Diversity is determined by the number of credits transferred.

MATH 12400 - College Algebra and Trigonometry (4 cr)

General

Course Title
College Algebra and Trigonometry

Catalog Description
This course is replacing the course MATH 12500 (STEM) for students who do not intend to take calculus. Functions and their graphs; linear, quadratic, polynomial, rational, exponential, logarithmic, and trigonometric functions; topics in trigonometry; graphical and analytical solutions to systems of equations. Students who would plan on taking calculus should register for MATH 12550 (STEM) instead of this course. Students who complete this course will need to register for MATH 14000 in order to take calculus. This course is equivalent to Math 12500 for grade replacement purposes.

MATH 12550 - Precalculus with Workshop (4 cr)

General

Course Title
Precalculus with Workshop

Catalog Description
This course replaces the course MATH 12500 (STEM) for students who intend to take calculus. It is designed to develop an understanding of topics and skills which are fundamental to the study of calculus and other science classes. The topics covered are: linear, quadratic, polynomial, rational, exponential, logarithmic, and trigonometric functions and their graphs and applications; the Fundamental Theorem of Algebra; sequences, sums, and the Binomial Theorem. In addition to lecture, students are also required to attend a 50-minute recitation session once a week. This course is equivalent to Math 12500 for grade replacement purposes.

MATH 12600 - Precalculus Technology Laboratory (1 cr)

General

Course Title
Precalculus Technology Laboratory

Catalog Description
Students are introduced to MATHEMATICA as a tool for exploring qualitative features of functions and solving pre-calculus problems: simplifying algebraic expressions, solving equations, plotting functions and curves, finding and approximating zeros and solving systems of equations. MATH 12600 cannot be taken for credit after a student has passed MATH 15000. Students who have passed MATH 15000 should register for MATH 15400 to satisfy the symbolic proficiency requirement.

STAT 39552 - Gene Expression Analysis (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Gene Expression Analysis

Catalog Description
From time to time, our students deserve an introduction to specific topics in statistics taught in a way that they, even without a statistical background, can learn and appreciate. This topics course is the most suitable venue for this. Each Topics course will be offered on an experimental basis. If a topic is determined to be integral to the needs of the student population, we will submit a new course proposal after the second time the same topic is offered. In bioinformatics, a sequence alignment is a way of arranging the sequences of DNA, RNA, or protein to identify regions of similarity that may be a consequence of functional, structural, or evolutionary relationships between the sequences. In turn, these relationships have consequents for new insights in medicine, epidemiology, psychology, sociology, and in the social sciences. Many observers have note the flood of new sequencing data every day means that analysis, let alone intepretation, of the data falls ever further behind. Statistical tools a major part of the solution to these issues. This course will cover: the processes by which the observations of a sequence made; the statistical methodology (multivariate analysis of binary data) by which significant sequences are identified; and the implications that follow from this identification.

Medical Laboratory Sciences Department

Overview

The Department of Medical Laboratory Sciences offers a rigorous and extensive education in biomedical science that prepares students for employment in clinical (hospital and private diagnostic), research (academic/biotechnology/pharmaceutical) and public health laboratories and for advanced degrees in graduate (Master's/Ph.D.) and professional (medical/dental/physician assistant) schools as well as advanced clinical certifications. Two academic degrees for undergraduates are offered: the BS in Medical Laboratory Sciences: Biomedical Science and the BS in Medical Laboratory Sciences: Clinical Science. Both majors emphasize laboratory training through classroom work. The Medical Laboratory Sciences: Biomedical Science major is intended for those students who plan to obtain advanced graduate or medical degrees. Students in this major are encouraged to perform independent study research projects with faculty. The Medical Laboratory Sciences: Clinical Science major is licensure qualifying and is intended for those students who plan to take the New York State Education Department (NYSED) licensure exam for clinical laboratory technologists. A license is required to work as a clinical laboratory technologist in NYS. Clinical laboratory technologists perform analytical tests on patient samples and play an essential role in the diagnosis and treatment of disease. The Clinical Science major requires students to perform a departmentally-arranged eight-week full time summer internship in a hospital or private diagnostic laboratory. Students in the Clinical Science major may also pursue advanced graduate and medical degrees.

What can I do with my degree in Medical Laboratory Sciences?

Graduates pursue entry-level careers in diagnostic or research labs, as well as further education in graduate programs, medical school and other clinical specialties. MLS graduates work in hospitals, nonprofit research institutions and pharmaceutical and biotechnology companies.

Learning Outcomes: Medical Laboratory Sciences BA

1. Acquire the knowledge and skills needed to perform with proficiency on the NYS licensure exam for clinical laboratory technologists.
2. Demonstrate the ability to critically evaluate and properly and effectively communicate laboratory data and information from the scientific literature.
3. Demonstrate an understanding of the structure and function of the human body in health and disease.
4. Demonstrate an understanding of a variety of laboratory and computer skills and/or techniques and/or calculations that are used in biomedical research and clinical laboratories.
5. Understand and demonstrate safe laboratory practices.
6. Demonstrate an understanding of ethical standards in science and the regulation of clinical laboratories.

Learning Outcomes: Medical Laboratory Technology

1. Acquire the knowledge and skills needed to perform with proficiency on the NYS licensure exam for clinical laboratory technologists.
2. Demonstrate an understanding of a variety of laboratory and computer skills and/or techniques and/or calculations that are used in clinical laboratories.
3. Understand and demonstrate safe laboratory practices.
4. Demonstrate an understanding of ethical standards in healthcare and the regulation of clinical laboratories.

Program Description

The Medical Laboratory Sciences (MLS): Biomedical Science major prepares students for careers in biomedical laboratories and other health-related professions. The MLS curriculum builds upon the basic science courses required to enter the program. Courses in the major fall into the following categories:

1. fundamental lab skills
2. clinical subspecialties
3. advanced biomedical courses

Emphasis is placed on problem solving and development of laboratory strategies, in addition to theoretical knowledge and practical skills in each of the disciplines in the curriculum. The Biomedical Science major is appropriate for students seeking graduate education in biomedical or health-related fields. This major does not meet the requirements for NY State licensure of clinical laboratory technologists. For the licensure-qualifying program, please see the Medical Laboratory Sciences: Clinical Science BS major. The academic demands of MLS courses often require students to carry lighter credit loads than they are accustomed to. Part-time attendance and some evening classes are mechanisms for assisting students to complete the challenging curriculum. See course descriptions and the MLS Web site for more detail.

Admissions Requirement

Completion of 60 credits before enrolling in MLS, including: one year of general chemistry with lab (CHEM 10200 (STEM), CHEM 10400 (STEM), CHEM 10600 (STEM), or equivalent) 1 year of general biology with lab (BIOL 10000 (STEM), BIOL 10200 (STEM), or equivalent) and an overall GPA of at least 2.5. Students can enter the Medical Laboratory Sciences major in fall and spring semesters. Advisers welcome e-mail inquiries anytime. To apply both current Hunter College students and transfer students must complete a Transfer Application with the CUNY University Application Processing Center. Visit http://www.hunter.cuny.edu/prospectivestudents/ug_students/transfer.shtml and select On-Line Application from the choices. Be sure to select “Medical Laboratory Sciences” at Hunter College as the choice of curriculum. Use CUNY curriculum code 0344 when applying. Admissions take place on a rolling basis so students should apply as early as possible. Admission deadlines for fall and spring semesters are February 1 and September 15, respectively. Students are encouraged to complete most of their Hunter Core Requirement (HCR) Hunter Core Requirement which includes the CUNY Common Core Requirement, the Hunter Focus on foreign language and the Concurrent Requirements before entering the program, but liberal arts classes can be interspersed with major courses.

Meeting the minimum requirements does not guarantee acceptance into the program, which is based, by necessity, on the limitations of space and resources. The Hunter College Department of Medical Lab Sciences is dedicated to equal opportunity for all applicants who meet admission requirements.

Fulfill ALL of the following requirements:

Earn at least 6 credits from the following:
- Required Core English Composition

Students who receive an “exemption” for ENGL 12000 or for a course in English Comp 2 are deemed to have fulfilled English Composition 1 or 2, respectively.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Required Core Mathematical and Quantitative Reasoning

Some courses in this categories carry more than 3 credits (the “STEM variant” courses). Students who elect to take these courses may apply only three credits towards fulfilling the Common Core.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Required Core Life and Physical Sciences

Some courses in this categories carry more than 3 credits (the “STEM variant” courses). Students who elect to take these courses may apply only three credits towards fulfilling the Common Core.

Additional Comments:
Students may take no more than two courses from one department or program to fulfill categories Common Core.

Transfer Students

- Transfer students who have earned an AA/AS degree from an accredited institution, including CUNY, and who matriculated in fall 2013 and after will have fulfilled the Common Core.
- For all other CUNY transfer students, any unmet Common Core requirements must be completed while matriculated at Hunter.
- Non-CUNY transfer students without an AA/AS degree should confer with their adviser to determine whether they have met CCC requirements.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - College Option/Hunter Focus

Type
Completion Requirement

Earn at least 12 credits
The Hunter Focus consists of 12 credits total. The composition of these credits will vary depending on the student's matriculation status and language proficiency. All students are required to complete the Foreign Language requirement; after that is met, students begin Concentrated Study.

Exceptions:

- Students in the School of Nursing may fulfill their entire 12 credits of Hunter Focus by taking three "STEM variant" science courses in addition to the STEM courses used to fulfill the Common Core.
- Students with a joint major in Education may fulfill their entire 12 credits with courses in Education.

Hunter Focus: Foreign Language

Students must attain fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language. For students with no prior language courses, this proficiency typically consists of completing four courses or a total of 12 credits. Students who have prior language courses, including those from high school, should consult an adviser. Students may apply only one course at each level (Elementary level 1, Elementary level 2, Intermediate level 3, and Intermediate level 4) toward the Hunter Focus. Intensive courses can be used to satisfy the two-course sequence at the Elementary and at the Intermediate levels.

Hunter Focus: Concentrated Study

Once students have completed the Foreign Language requirement, any credits remaining from the 12 required for the Hunter Focus will be used on Concentrated Study. Concentrated Study refers to courses that fulfill requirements for a declared minor, a second major or a certificate. The number of credits required for Concentrated Study ranges from 0-12 and is determined by the number of credits in a foreign language a student must take.

3	9
6	6

For students who matriculated prior to fall 2019, these three credits are waived.*

For students who matriculated in fall 2019 or after, and who do not also complete a second major, minor, or certificate program, these three credits shall be from a course, at the 200-level or above, on a topic related to the language used for the Foreign Language requirement, in the target language or in English translation.*

Transfer Students

All transfer students must complete the Hunter Focus. For students who first matriculated in an associate program, the number of credits required in the Hunter Focus varies with the number of credits transferred.

CREDITS/DEGREES TRANSFERRED	CREDITS/REQUIRED
Fewer than 30	12
30 or more, without an AA/AS degree	9
AA/AS degree	6

Students who first matriculate in a baccalaureate program must complete 12 credits of Hunter Focus. Any "College Option" credits completed at another CUNY senior college will be applied to the Hunter Focus.

Hunter Focus: Foreign Language

Transfer students must reach or work toward fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language. The number of credits needed to complete the Foreign Language requirement is determined by the student's transfer status, as defined above, and language proficiency at the time of matriculation. Students who have prior language courses, including those from high school, should consult an adviser.

Hunter Focus: Concentrated Study

Once transfer students have completed the Foreign Language requirement, any credits remaining from the Hunter Focus will be used on Concentrated Study as described above.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - Pluralism and Diversity

Type
Completion Requirement

Fulfill ALL of the following requirements:

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group A

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of non-European societies, particularly those of Africa, Asia, Latin America or those indigenous to the Americas.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group B

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives, immigrant experiences and/or intellectual traditions of one or more of the following groups in the United States of America: African Americans, Asian Americans, Latino Americans and Native Americans.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group C

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of women and/or issues of gender or sexual orientation.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group D

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of Europe, including the ways in which pluralism and diversity have been addressed.

Additional Comments:
Students must complete four courses designated for the Pluralism and Diversity Requirement, one from each of four categories. The four categories of Pluralism and Diversity focus on major practical or theoretical issues that emerge from, are reflected in, or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives, and/or intellectual traditions of the following:

A. Non-European societies, particularly those of Africa, Asia, Latin America, or those indigenous to the Americas;

B. One or more of the following groups in the US: African Americans, Asian Americans, Latino Americans, and Native Americans;

C. Women and/or issues of gender or sexual orientation;

D. Europe, including ways in which pluralism and diversity have been addressed.

Any one course with a Pluralism and Diversity designation can satisfy only one Pluralism and Diversity category but may also fulfill any other requirement.

Transfer Students

Transfer students must take at least two courses designated for different categories of the Pluralism and Diversity requirement. The number of courses required in Pluralism and Diversity is determined by the number of credits transferred.

CREDITS TRANSFERRED	COURSES REQUIRED
Fewer than 31	4
31 or more	2

Any one course with a Pluralism and Diversity designation can only satisfy one Pluralism and Diversity category but may also fulfill any other requirement.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - Writing Intensive

Type
Completion Requirement

Complete at least 1 course in the following course sets:
- Writing Intensive

Transfer Students

Transfer students must take at least one Writing Intensive course, designated with a "W" in the catalog, at Hunter College. The number of Writing Intensive courses required is determined by the number of credits transferred.

Admission Requirements

Medical Laboratory Sciences (MLS): Clinical Science is a pre-professional major, preparing students for careers in laboratories devoted to promoting, maintaining and restoring human health. The MLS curriculum builds upon the basic science courses required to enter the program. Courses in the major fall into the following categories:

*fundamental lab skills
*clinical subspecialties
*advanced biomedical courses
*pre-professional practice
Emphasis is placed on problem solving and development of laboratory strategies, in addition to theoretical knowledge and practical skills in each of the disciplines in the curriculum. The Clinical Science major is intended for, but not limited to, students pursuing careers in the diagnostic laboratory and is designed to meet the requirements for NY State licensure of clinical laboratory technologists. The academic demands of MLS courses often require students to carry lighter credit loads than they are accustomed to. Part-time attendance and some evening classes are mechanisms for assisting students to complete the challenging curriculum. See course descriptions and the MLS Web site: http://www.hunter.cuny.edu/mls for more detail.

The requirements for consideration for admission to Medical Laboratory Sciences - BS programs are as follows:

- Completion of 60 credits before enrolling in MLS, including: one year of general chemistry with lab (CHEM 10200 (STEM), CHEM 10400 (STEM), CHEM 10600 (STEM) or equivalent)
- 1 year of general biology with lab (BIOL 10000 (STEM), BIOL 10200 (STEM) or equivalent)
- overall GPA of at least 2.5.

Students can enter the Medical Laboratory Sciences major in fall and spring semesters. Advisers welcome e-mail inquiries anytime. To apply both current Hunter College students and transfer students must complete a Transfer Application with the CUNY University Application Processing Center. Visit http://www.hunter.cuny.edu/prospectivestudents/ug_students/transfer.shtml and select On-Line Application from the choices. Be sure to select “Medical Laboratory Sciences” at Hunter College as the choice of curriculum. Use CUNY curriculum code 0344 when applying. Admissions take place on a rolling basis so students should apply as early as possible. Admission deadlines for fall and spring semesters are February 1 and September 15, respectively. Students are encouraged to complete most of their Hunter Core Requirement - Fall 2013 to Spring 2019 (HCR) which includes the CUNY Common Core Requirement, the Hunter Focus on foreign language and the Concurrent Requirements before entering the program, but liberal arts classes can be interspersed with major courses. Meeting the minimum requirements does not guarantee acceptance into the program, which is based, by necessity, on the limitations of space and resources. The Hunter College Department of Medical Lab Sciences is dedicated to equal opportunity for all applicants who meet admission requirements.

Music Department

Overview

The Music Department offers students the chance to explore musical expression through performance and academic study. Opportunities to learn from some of the best theorists, musicologists and ethnomusicologists in the field exist alongside exciting performance opportunities for every playing and singing ability. All undergraduate music majors include training in performance, aural skills, music theory, and music history, in the context of a strong liberal-arts degree program. Many other subjects, including composition, arranging, computer music, and ethnomusicology are available as electives. The undergraduate programs provide both the foundation for further study of any area of music and a liberal-arts background that can serve as a basis for careers in other fields.

Our ensembles include College Choir, Chamber Singers, Opera, Jazz Vocal Workshop, Jazz Ensemble, Jazz and Popular Music Combos, Chamber Music, and the Hunter Symphony. The BA degree can be completed evenings or days. In addition, the department sponsors numerous extracurricular events, including concerts, lectures, and master classes. Private lessons in instruments and voice are provided to all performance majors and many other music majors by a distinguished roster of performance teachers. Financial aid is available to qualified performance majors and other majors who need to study with private teachers not on the staff.

What can I do with my degree in Music?

Graduates of the department go on to a variety of careers in music and beyond. Graduates of the BA/MA dual degree program in Music/Music Teacher Education Pre-K-12 - BA/MA are qualified to teach in the public elementary and high schools of New York State.

Teacher Education Pathway

Students planning to teach this subject in grades 7-12 should look at the School of Education: Program List for information about their programs that lead to the recommendation for New York State Initial Certification required to be a lead teacher in NYS public schools.

Graduate Study

Seniors of high academic standing who are recommended by the department may be permitted to take graduate courses for undergraduate credit. Seniors within 9 credits of graduation may apply to the Admissions Office for permission to take graduate courses creditable toward the MA degree.

Learning Outcomes: Music BA/Bmus

1. Evaluate musical repertory within its broad historical and social context and distinguish how it supports or defies conventions of genre and style. (Musicology)
2. Demonstrate the appropriate solo and/or ensemble skills required to participate in private lessons juries and public performances. (Performance)
3. Identify and apply the major principles of music and music notation compose melodies and harmonies pursuant to standard practices and accurately sing and chant melodies and rhythms. (Theory and Musicianship)
4. Express a personal voice through written or improvised music. (Composition)
5. Identify the methodological tools of ethnomusicology research. (Ethnomusicology)
6. Demonstrate introductory knowledge of music technology's role in 20th-21st century musical style and interact with basic hardware and software tools. (Music Technology)

Additional Comments:
Students may take no more than two courses from one department or program to fulfill categories Common Core.

Transfer Students

- Transfer students who have earned an AA/AS degree from an accredited institution, including CUNY, and who matriculated in fall 2013 and after will have fulfilled the Common Core.
- For all other CUNY transfer students, any unmet Common Core requirements must be completed while matriculated at Hunter.
- Non-CUNY transfer students without an AA/AS degree should confer with their adviser to determine whether they have met CCC requirements.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - College Option/Hunter Focus

Type
Completion Requirement

Earn at least 12 credits
The Hunter Focus consists of 12 credits total. The composition of these credits will vary depending on the student’s matriculation status and language proficiency. All students are required to complete the Foreign Language requirement; after that is met, students begin Concentrated Study.

Exceptions:

- Students in the School of Nursing may fulfill their entire 12 credits of Hunter Focus by taking three “STEM variant” science courses in addition to the STEM courses used to fulfill the Common Core.
- Students with a joint major in Education may fulfill their entire 12 credits with courses in Education.

Hunter Focus: Foreign Language

Students must attain fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language. For students with no prior language courses, this proficiency typically consists of completing four courses or a total of 12 credits. Students who have prior language courses, including those from high school, should consult an adviser. Students may apply only one course at each level (Elementary level 1, Elementary level 2, Intermediate level 3, and Intermediate level 4) toward the Hunter Focus. Intensive courses can be used to satisfy the two-course sequence at the Elementary and at the Intermediate levels.

Hunter Focus: Concentrated Study

Once students have completed the Foreign Language requirement, any credits remaining from the 12 required for the Hunter Focus will be used on Concentrated Study. Concentrated Study refers to courses that fulfill requirements for a declared minor, a second major or a certificate. The number of credits required for Concentrated Study ranges from 0-12 and is determined by the number of credits in a foreign language a student must take.

3	9
6	6

For students who matriculated prior to fall 2019, these three credits are waived.*

For students who matriculated in fall 2019 or after, and who do not also complete a second major, minor, or certificate program, these three credits shall be from a course, at the 200-level or above, on a topic related to the language used for the Foreign Language requirement, in the target language or in English translation.*

Transfer Students

All transfer students must complete the Hunter Focus. For students who first matriculated in an associate program, the number of credits required in the Hunter Focus varies with the number of credits transferred.

CREDITS/DEGREES TRANSFERRED	CREDITS/REQUIRED
Fewer than 30	12
30 or more, without an AA/AS degree	9
AA/AS degree	6

Students who first matriculate in a baccalaureate program must complete 12 credits of Hunter Focus. Any "College Option" credits completed at another CUNY senior college will be applied to the Hunter Focus.

Hunter Focus: Foreign Language

Transfer students must reach or work toward fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language. The number of credits needed to complete the Foreign Language requirement is determined by the student's transfer status, as defined above, and language proficiency at the time of matriculation. Students who have prior language courses, including those from high school, should consult an adviser.

Hunter Focus: Concentrated Study

Once transfer students have completed the Foreign Language requirement, any credits remaining from the Hunter Focus will be used on Concentrated Study as described above.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - Pluralism and Diversity

Type
Completion Requirement

Fulfill ALL of the following requirements:

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group A

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of non-European societies, particularly those of Africa, Asia, Latin America or those indigenous to the Americas.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group B

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives, immigrant experiences and/or intellectual traditions of one or more of the following groups in the United States of America: African Americans, Asian Americans, Latino Americans and Native Americans.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group C

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of women and/or issues of gender or sexual orientation.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group D

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of Europe, including the ways in which pluralism and diversity have been addressed.

Additional Comments:
Students must complete four courses designated for the Pluralism and Diversity Requirement, one from each of four categories. The four categories of Pluralism and Diversity focus on major practical or theoretical issues that emerge from, are reflected in, or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives, and/or intellectual traditions of the following:

A. Non-European societies, particularly those of Africa, Asia, Latin America, or those indigenous to the Americas;

B. One or more of the following groups in the US: African Americans, Asian Americans, Latino Americans, and Native Americans;

C. Women and/or issues of gender or sexual orientation;

D. Europe, including ways in which pluralism and diversity have been addressed.

Any one course with a Pluralism and Diversity designation can satisfy only one Pluralism and Diversity category but may also fulfill any other requirement.

Transfer Students

Transfer students must take at least two courses designated for different categories of the Pluralism and Diversity requirement. The number of courses required in Pluralism and Diversity is determined by the number of credits transferred.

CREDITS TRANSFERRED	COURSES REQUIRED
Fewer than 31	4
31 or more	2

Any one course with a Pluralism and Diversity designation can only satisfy one Pluralism and Diversity category but may also fulfill any other requirement.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - Writing Intensive

Type
Completion Requirement

Complete at least 1 course in the following course sets:
- Writing Intensive

Transfer Students

Transfer students must take at least one Writing Intensive course, designated with a "W" in the catalog, at Hunter College. The number of Writing Intensive courses required is determined by the number of credits transferred.

CREDITS TRANSFERRED	"W" COURSES REQUIRED
Fewer than 30	3
31-59	2
60 or more	1

Note: Specific sections of courses containing significant writing are listed with a W designation in the Schedule of Classes. Please note that not all sections of a course are necessarily offered with significant writing. To satisfy the Writing Requirement a section designated as W in the Schedule of Classes must be taken.

2nd Degree Students

Transfer Students

- Transfer students who have earned an AA/AS degree from an accredited institution, including CUNY, and who matriculated in fall 2013 and after will have fulfilled the Common Core.
- For all other CUNY transfer students, any unmet Common Core requirements must be completed while matriculated at Hunter.

- Non-CUNY transfer students without an AA/AS degree should confer with their adviser to determine whether they have met CCC requirements.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - College Option/Hunter Focus

Type
Completion Requirement

Earn at least 12 credits
The Hunter Focus consists of 12 credits total. The composition of these credits will vary depending on the student's matriculation status and language proficiency. All students are required to complete the Foreign Language requirement; after that is met, students begin Concentrated Study.

Exceptions:

- Students in the School of Nursing may fulfill their entire 12 credits of Hunter Focus by taking three "STEM variant" science courses in addition to the STEM courses used to fulfill the Common Core.
- Students with a joint major in Education may fulfill their entire 12 credits with courses in Education.

Hunter Focus: Foreign Language

Students must attain fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language. For students with no prior language courses, this proficiency typically consists of completing four courses or a total of 12 credits. Students who have prior language courses, including those from high school, should consult an adviser. Students may apply only one course at each level (Elementary level 1, Elementary level 2, Intermediate level 3, and Intermediate level 4) toward the Hunter Focus. Intensive courses can be used to satisfy the two-course sequence at the Elementary and at the Intermediate levels.

Hunter Focus: Concentrated Study

Once students have completed the Foreign Language requirement, any credits remaining from the 12 required for the Hunter Focus will be used on Concentrated Study. Concentrated Study refers to courses that fulfill requirements for a declared minor, a second major or a certificate. The number of credits required for Concentrated Study ranges from 0-12 and is determined by the number of credits in a foreign language a student must take.

3	9
6	6

For students who matriculated prior to fall 2019, these three credits are waived.*

For students who matriculated in fall 2019 or after, and who do not also complete a second major, minor, or certificate program, these three credits shall be from a course, at the 200-level or above, on a topic related to the language used for the Foreign Language requirement, in the target language or in English translation.*

Transfer Students

All transfer students must complete the Hunter Focus. For students who first matriculated in an associate program, the number of credits required in the Hunter Focus varies with the number of credits transferred.

CREDITS/DEGREES TRANSFERRED	CREDITS/REQUIRED
Fewer than 30	12
30 or more, without an AA/AS degree	9
AA/AS degree	6

Students who first matriculate in a baccalaureate program must complete 12 credits of Hunter Focus. Any "College Option" credits completed at another CUNY senior college will be applied to the Hunter Focus.

Hunter Focus: Foreign Language

Transfer students must reach or work toward fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language. The number of credits needed to complete the Foreign Language requirement is determined by the student's transfer status, as defined above, and language proficiency at the time of matriculation. Students who have prior language courses, including those from high school, should consult an adviser.

Hunter Focus: Concentrated Study

Once transfer students have completed the Foreign Language requirement, any credits remaining from the Hunter Focus will be used on Concentrated Study as described above.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - Pluralism and Diversity

Type
Completion Requirement

Fulfill ALL of the following requirements:

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group A

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of non-European societies, particularly those of Africa, Asia, Latin America or those indigenous to the Americas.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group B

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives, immigrant experiences and/or intellectual traditions of one or more of the following groups in the United States of America: African Americans, Asian Americans, Latino Americans and Native Americans.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group C

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of women and/or issues of gender or sexual orientation.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group D

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of Europe, including the ways in which pluralism and diversity have been addressed.

Additional Comments:
Students must complete four courses designated for the Pluralism and Diversity Requirement, one from each of four categories. The four categories of Pluralism and Diversity focus on major practical or theoretical issues that emerge from, are reflected in, or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives, and/or intellectual traditions of the following:

A. Non-European societies, particularly those of Africa, Asia, Latin America, or those indigenous to the Americas;

B. One or more of the following groups in the US: African Americans, Asian Americans, Latino Americans, and Native Americans;

C. Women and/or issues of gender or sexual orientation;

D. Europe, including ways in which pluralism and diversity have been addressed.

Any one course with a Pluralism and Diversity designation can satisfy only one Pluralism and Diversity category but may also fulfill any other requirement.

MUSHL 26120 - Music and Politics (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Music and Politics

Catalog Description
This course examines music and politics in cross-cultural perspective. Some of the main questions the course explores are: why is music so important to social movements around the world? How have governments and non-governmental groups used music to build national solidarity? Why have so many states seen fit to censor certain music while promoting others? And what roles do markets and media play in which music circulate and become effectual catalysts of change? The course is based on listening, viewing audio-visual materials, reading historical, ethnographic, and analytic literatures, and discussing all of these materials in class. We will focus on music, cultural policy and change, in Bulgaria, the People's Republic of China; postcolonial popular music in Nigeria; histories of folk and popular music in social movements in North America, and music, religion and politics in Muslim majority societies such as Afghanistan and Iran. Students will leave the class having experienced a broad spectrum of musical genres, sounds, political systems, texts and attitudes about art, folk and popular music.

MUSHL 26129 - History of Rap Music (3 cr)

General

Course Title
History of Rap Music

Catalog Description
This course will trace rap's history from its roots in Black music of the 1960s and 70s, its beginnings at DJ parties in the South Bronx, its move from the underground into the mainstream, to its impact on popular music across the world in the new millennium. We will examine different rap styles and techniques, such the turntable skills of Grandmaster Flash, the drum-machine-generated beats of Run DMC, Public Enemy's abrasive layers of sound, "laid back" Los Angeles G-Funk, Biggie's formidable flow, and Dirty South bouncy bass and hi-hat rattles. We will look at the connections between rap styles and lyrics and social changes and conflicts in US society, such as mass incarceration and the criminalization of Black youth, the 1992 Los Angeles rebellion, and the politics of respectability versus rap's imperative to always keep it real.

MUSHL 26133 - Music, Modes of Listening, and Nostalgia (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Music, Modes of Listening, and Nostalgia

Catalog Description
This course explores the intersection between two seemingly unrelated topics: 1) the ways in which market pressures and shifting technological developments have influenced dominant modes of listening to music, and 2) the emergence of a culture of nostalgia and obsessive reflexivity in both popular and art-music domains. Primary readings will include Simon Reynolds's Retromania: Pop Culture's Addiction to Its Own Past and Tim Rutherford-Johnson's Music After the Fall: Modern Composition and Culture Since 1989.

MUSHL 36163 - 20th Century Music and Technique (3 cr)

General

Course Title
20th Century Music and Technique

Catalog Description
This course will examine how the history of music in the twentieth century was shaped by technology, from the first recording devices and the earliest electronic instruments through the use of digital media. The definition of technology will be broad and will also include unusual approaches to the making of music. The repertory of music studied will be similarly wide in range, encompassing both popular songs from the 1890s and the avant-garde explorations of the 1950s.

MUSHL 36164 - The Oratorio (3 cr)

General

Course Title
The Oratorio

Catalog Description
This course surveys the oratorio genre from ca. 1600 to 1900 through the study of selected repertory from the perspective of style analysis, socio-cultural history and performance practice. Repertory will range from standard pieces by Carissimi, Handel, Haydn, Mendelssohn, and Elgar to lesser-known pieces by Cavalieri, Marc-Antoine Charpentier, Schumann and others. Because of the genre's unique aural emphasis on text and music at the expense of visual aspects like staging and acting, emphasis will be placed on the composer as an exegete, i.e. as a musical interpreter of the text and the drama. Although prior knowledge of foreign languages (Italian, French and German) is useful, it is not required for the course. Text and translations will be provided.

Catalog Description
This class is designed for piano majors. Explore the great and diverse art form of piano transcription, which is essentially the adaptation and arrangement of works for the piano that were originally intended for another medium. This practice became very popular in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries as the piano itself increased in production and modernization, and a growing bourgeoisie sought to enjoy great symphonies and operas in their own homes. Study literal transcriptions that remain faithful to the original score as well as those where the work becomes transformed into something entirely new. Each student will learn a transcription suitable to his or her level of piano study.

MUSTH 20100 - Introduction to Music Technology (1 cr)

General

Course Title
Introduction to Music Technology

Catalog Description
An introduction to basic music technology skills: music notation software, MIDI sequencing, and digital audio editing. This course will introduce students to the three ways in which new computer software is used to aid contemporary musicians: to compose and engrave music; to play and record MIDI instruments, such as synthesizers; and to record and edit digital audio. Although this is a practical, 'hands on' course, it will also cover the basic ideas necessary to understand these tools: the principles of music notation; acoustics and the physical nature of sound; and copyright issues.

Nursing Department

Overview

The School of Nursing is located at Hunter College's Brookdale Health Science Center at 425 East 25th Street in Manhattan. The School's programs combine liberal and professional education with a humanistic and holistic approach to health care. The School's mission is to provide quality nursing education to promote health and provide care to culturally diverse, urban, and global communities through research, scholarship and service.

The School offers three programs leading to the Bachelor of Science (with a major in nursing) degree: the Generic Program, for traditional students who have completed high school;-the RN to BS Program for students who have completed an Associate degree nursing program and are licensed as a RN; and the Accelerated 2nd Degree Program for students who have a non-nursing baccalaureate degree. Information about application to our programs is available at http://www.hunter.cuny.edu/nursing.

What can I do with my degree in Nursing?

School of Nursing Baccalaureate graduates are prepared to practice as generalist nurses in health care settings.

Admission Requirements (all Programs)

Students are considered for admission to the Generic Program, Accelerated 2nd Degree and RN to BS programs for the fall semester only. Students are considered for admission to the generic program in the spring semester of their freshman year, after completing prerequisite course work and an application to the School of Nursing. An overall college GPA of 3.2 in addition to other requirements is the minimum requirement for consideration of an application. Only matriculated Hunter College students can apply to the Generic Program. Admission to the School of Nursing is competitive. Generic Program and Accelerated 2nd Degree Program students must be able to attend during the day and evening on a full-time basis, including weekends. All clinical assignments are made by the school faculty depending on site availability. RN to BS Program students attend Nursing major coursework fully online, on a full-or a part-time basis.

HBSON and Queensborough Community College have a collaborative agreement that grants early acceptance of AAS students into the RN to BS program. Students must complete their first semester of study at QCC with a grade of B or better in NU 101 and a GPA of 3.2 or better for early acceptance.

GPA Requirements for Nursing Programs

An overall college GPA of 3.2 in addition to other requirements is the minimum requirement for consideration of an application.

Attendance Requirements for Nursing

Generic Program and Accelerated 2nd Degree Program students complete coursework in person on a full-time basis. RN to BS students complete Nursing major coursework fully online, on a full-or a part-time basis.

Grading Policy for Nursing Courses

Students must receive minimum grades of C in all required nursing courses. One required nursing course (Generic Pathway: NURS 20000, NURS 21000, NURS 22000, NURS 24000, NURS 33100, NURS 33200, NURS 33900, NURS 34300, NURS 34900, NURS 35200, NURS 36000, NURS 45500, NURS 46000, NURS 47000, NURS 49000 NURS 49200, NURS 42200) is repeatable once by students who have received a failing grade. Students who fail a second required nursing course in the sequence or a second Biology course may not repeat that course and may not continue in the nursing major.

Note: Other colleges, graduate schools, professional schools, services and employers may calculate a grade point average inclusive of the failing grades. For questions regarding this policy, check with the Office of Advising Services, Rm 1119 East Building.

Degree Maps

School of Nursing Licensing and Accreditation

Accreditation

The baccalaureate degree in nursing programs, the master's degree in nursing programs, and the Doctor of Nursing Practice program at Hunter College, CUNY, are accredited by the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education, 655 K Street NW, Suite 750, Washington DC 20001, 202-887-6791.

Licensing

Hunter-Bellevue Baccalaureate graduates are prepared to practice as generalist nurses in health care settings. Graduates from the Generic and Accelerated 2nd Degree Programs are eligible to take the National Council Licensing Examination for Registered Nurses (NCLEX-RN). The program also provides a foundation for graduate study which also is offered at the School of Nursing. Graduates of the advanced practice nursing programs are eligible to take the certification examinations for nurse practitioners and clinical nurse specialists.

Centers

The Health Professions Education Center (HPEC)

The Health Professions Education Center (HPEC) is an academic learning center serving all students and faculty at the Hunter College Nursing and School of Health Professions. A variety of comprehensive support services and programs are offered at the HPEC to enhance student academic success, retention, and completion rates by applying best practices and addressing student learning needs from multiple pedagogical perspectives. Our services are designed to develop critical thinking, reinforce practice of clinical skills, and foster a supportive, professional environment for student collaboration and scholarship.

The HPEC combines traditional approaches to teaching with new instructional technologies that reflect the dynamic nature of all health professions. Services at the center include:

- Access to the largest collection of health-related videos and instructional media within CUNY.
- Computer-aided educational software and virtual training technologies.
- Access to state board testing preparation programs.
- Technology support at the Hunter College Brookdale Campus.
- Beta testing and evaluation of new instructional media.
- Faculty consultation for research and classroom media integration.
- Development and administration of e-learning initiatives, online testing, and digital content.
- Individual and group study support.
- Simulation laboratory support through the New York Simulation (NYSIM) Center.

Faculty and students from all Hunter College schools and departments are always welcome to view the many resources available at the HPEC.

Director: Martin Dornbaum; Mezzanine floor, Brookdale West Building; (212) 481-5129, mdornbau@hunter.cuny.edu

For Evening assistance: email edcenter@hunter.cuny.edu

Website: http://www.hunter.cuny.edu/shp/centers/hpec/

The center maintains regular office hours throughout the academic year, Monday-Thursday 9AM-9PM and Fridays 9AM-5PM.

Center for Nursing Research

The mission of the Center for Nursing Research (CNR) at SON is to support and facilitate the development of nurse scientists and their research.

The Goals of the CNR:

- Foster a sustainable culture of scholarship
- Develop an infrastructure to support and disseminate nursing research
- Facilitate interprofessional research collaboration
- Engage students in the research process

The CNR offers support to faculty in all stages of the research process, from conceptualization of research design through obtaining funding, implementation of the research project, data analysis and publication of findings.

Opportunities are provided for students to participate in research with faculty as research assistants. The Center assists students in the preparation of research posters for presentation at nursing conferences and the CNR annual Evidence-Based Practice Poster Day.

Hunter College School of Nursing is a partner in a major research consortium of the Weill Cornell Medical College Clinical and Translational Science Center (CTSC). The mission of the CTSC is to provide an environment that allows optimal use of our considerable multi-institutional assets and the diversity of our patient population to move translational research seamlessly from bench to bedside and to the community.The CTSC acts as a conduit through which essential resources, technological tools and education programs for all partners can be efficiently shared and managed. The multi-institutional consortium includes The Weill Cornell Graduate School of Medical Sciences, New York Presbyterian Hospital, Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, the Hospital for Special Surgery, the Hunter College School of Nursing, the Hunter College Center for Translational and Basic Research and the Cornell University Cooperative Extension in New York City.

Nutrition and Public Health Department

Overview

The department of Nutrition and Public Health within the School of Health Professions educates students to contribute to improving public health by addressing problems such as malnutrition, chronic diseases including obesity, diabetes, cancer, substance abuse, asthma, HIV, and violence. The department offers a Bachelor of Science and minor in Public Health, a Bachelor of Science in Nutrition and Food Science, and an accredited BS-MS in Nutrition which leads to the Registered Dietitian Nutritionist (RDN) credential.

- Bachelor of Science in Public Health and Minor in Public Health
- Bachelor of Science in Nutrition & Food Science (NFS-BS)
- Accelerated BS-MS in Nutrition in Food Science/Integrated Program in Nutrition & Dietetics (NFS-BS/MS-IPND)

What can I do with my degree in Public Health?

The PH-BS prepares students for work in community-based and human rights organizations, family planning clinics, mental health centers, homeless shelters, research centers, media organizations, as well as in city, state and national health departments. Students are also prepared to pursue graduate study in diverse fields including an MPH and Medicine-related.

What can I do with my degree in Nutrition and Food Science or the BS-MS?

The undergraduate NFS-BS prepares students to provide general nutrition education and counseling on wellness, health promotion and disease prevention. Graduates can work in a variety of settings such as corporate wellness, health clubs, community, WIC/child or senior centers, and food service/grocery chains, supporting research or programs within Departments of Health, or in food/nutrition journalism or marketing. Graduates often pursue advanced study in Nutrition and Dietetics to get credentialed as a Registered Dietitian Nutritionist (RDN) or work toward degrees in other allied health sciences. The RDN credential is offered at the graduate level at Hunter.

Accelerated BS-MS graduates who earn the RDN credential care about the health and nutritional well-being of people and communities and work in hospitals, HMOs, private practice or other health care facilities. More information about career opportunities can be found at the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics.

Campus

The Department of Nutrition and Public Health is located at the Silberman Campus at 2180 Third Avenue (119th St) which we share with the School of Social Work, Centro, the Center for Puerto Rican Studies at Hunter College; the Hunter East Harlem Gallery; and the Brookdale Center for Healthy Aging. One of Hunter's newest campus and a certified 'green' building, it includes a well-resourced library; state-of-the-art class and conference rooms; computer labs; and a large terrace.

Transfer Students

- Transfer students who have earned an AA/AS degree from an accredited institution, including CUNY, and who matriculated in fall 2013 and after will have fulfilled the Common Core.
- For all other CUNY transfer students, any unmet Common Core requirements must be completed while matriculated at Hunter.
- Non-CUNY transfer students without an AA/AS degree should confer with their adviser to determine whether they have met CCC requirements.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - College Option/Hunter Focus

Type
Completion Requirement

Earn at least 12 credits
The Hunter Focus consists of 12 credits total. The composition of these credits will vary depending on the student's matriculation status and language proficiency. All students are required to complete the Foreign Language requirement; after that is met, students begin Concentrated Study.

Exceptions:

- Students in the School of Nursing may fulfill their entire 12 credits of Hunter Focus by taking three "STEM variant" science courses in addition to the STEM courses used to fulfill the Common Core.
- Students with a joint major in Education may fulfill their entire 12 credits with courses in Education.

Hunter Focus: Foreign Language

Students must attain fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language. For students with no prior language courses, this proficiency typically consists of completing four courses or a total of 12 credits. Students who have prior language courses, including those from high school, should consult an adviser. Students may apply only one course at each level (Elementary level 1, Elementary level 2, Intermediate level 3, and Intermediate level 4) toward the Hunter Focus. Intensive courses can be used to satisfy the two-course sequence at the Elementary and at the Intermediate levels.

Hunter Focus: Concentrated Study

Once students have completed the Foreign Language requirement, any credits remaining from the 12 required for the Hunter Focus will be used on Concentrated Study. Concentrated Study refers to courses that fulfill requirements for a declared minor, a second major or a certificate. The number of credits required for Concentrated Study ranges from 0-12 and is determined by the number of credits in a foreign language a student must take.

3	9
6	6

For students who matriculated prior to fall 2019, these three credits are waived.*

For students who matriculated in fall 2019 or after, and who do not also complete a second major, minor, or certificate program, these three credits shall be from a course, at the 200-level or above, on a topic related to the language used for the Foreign Language requirement, in the target language or in English translation.*

Transfer Students

All transfer students must complete the Hunter Focus. For students who first matriculated in an associate program, the number of credits required in the Hunter Focus varies with the number of credits transferred.

CREDITS/DEGREES TRANSFERRED	CREDITS/REQUIRED
Fewer than 30	12
30 or more, without an AA/AS degree	9
AA/AS degree	6

Students who first matriculate in a baccalaureate program must complete 12 credits of Hunter Focus. Any "College Option" credits completed at another CUNY senior college will be applied to the Hunter Focus.

Hunter Focus: Foreign Language

Transfer students must reach or work toward fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language. The number of credits needed to complete the Foreign Language requirement is determined by the student's transfer status, as defined above, and language proficiency at the time of matriculation. Students who have prior language courses, including those from high school, should consult an adviser.

Hunter Focus: Concentrated Study

Once transfer students have completed the Foreign Language requirement, any credits remaining from the Hunter Focus will be used on Concentrated Study as described above.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - Pluralism and Diversity

Type
Completion Requirement

Fulfill ALL of the following requirements:

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group A

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of non-European societies, particularly those of Africa, Asia, Latin America or those indigenous to the Americas.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group B

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives, immigrant experiences and/or intellectual traditions of one or more of the following groups in the United States of America: African Americans, Asian Americans, Latino Americans and Native Americans.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group C

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of women and/or issues of gender or sexual orientation.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group D

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of Europe, including the ways in which pluralism and diversity have been addressed.

Additional Comments:
Students must complete four courses designated for the Pluralism and Diversity Requirement, one from each of four categories. The four categories of Pluralism and Diversity focus on major practical or theoretical issues that emerge from, are reflected in, or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives, and/or intellectual traditions of the following:

A. Non-European societies, particularly those of Africa, Asia, Latin America, or those indigenous to the Americas;

B. One or more of the following groups in the US: African Americans, Asian Americans, Latino Americans, and Native Americans;

C. Women and/or issues of gender or sexual orientation;

D. Europe, including ways in which pluralism and diversity have been addressed.

Any one course with a Pluralism and Diversity designation can satisfy only one Pluralism and Diversity category but may also fulfill any other requirement.

Transfer Students

Transfer students must take at least two courses designated for different categories of the Pluralism and Diversity requirement. The number of courses required in Pluralism and Diversity is determined by the number of credits transferred.

CREDITS TRANSFERRED	COURSES REQUIRED
Fewer than 31	4
31 or more	2

Any one course with a Pluralism and Diversity designation can only satisfy one Pluralism and Diversity category but may also fulfill any other requirement.

2nd Degree Students

Program Description

This program is not currently accepting applications. Please consult with the department for further information.

This pathway is for third year NFS majors who are interested in completing their degree and then continuing at Hunter to obtain a master's degree and verification statement (students will be provisionally accepted into the program in their junior year but must maintain grade requirements to matriculate into the MS-DPD program).

This accelerated pathway provides the opportunity for undergraduate students to remain at Hunter for their graduate coursework providing students the opportunity for academic acceleration to a graduate degree.

Since the MS-Nutrition curriculum meets the didactic program in dietetics (DPD) requirements established by the Accreditation Council for Education in Nutrition and Dietetics (ACEND), the credentialing arm of the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics (AND), it will qualify students from this BS/MS accelerated track to apply for Dietetic Internships and continue their professional preparation for the Registered Dietitian (RD) credential.

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group A

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of non-European societies, particularly those of Africa, Asia, Latin America or those indigenous to the Americas.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group B

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives, immigrant experiences and/or intellectual traditions of one or more of the following groups in the United States of America: African Americans, Asian Americans, Latino Americans and Native Americans.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group C

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of women and/or issues of gender or sexual orientation.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group D

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of Europe, including the ways in which pluralism and diversity have been addressed.

Additional Comments:
Students must complete four courses designated for the Pluralism and Diversity Requirement, one from each of four categories. The four categories of Pluralism and Diversity focus on major practical or theoretical issues that emerge from, are reflected in, or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives, and/or intellectual traditions of the following:

A. Non-European societies, particularly those of Africa, Asia, Latin America, or those indigenous to the Americas;

B. One or more of the following groups in the US: African Americans, Asian Americans, Latino Americans, and Native Americans;

C. Women and/or issues of gender or sexual orientation;

D. Europe, including ways in which pluralism and diversity have been addressed.

Any one course with a Pluralism and Diversity designation can satisfy only one Pluralism and Diversity category but may also fulfill any other requirement.

Transfer Students

Transfer students must take at least two courses designated for different categories of the Pluralism and Diversity requirement. The number of courses required in Pluralism and Diversity is determined by the number of credits transferred.

Note: Specific sections of courses containing significant writing are listed with a W designation in the Schedule of Classes. Please note that not all sections of a course are necessarily offered with significant writing. To satisfy the Writing Requirement a section designated as W in the Schedule of Classes must be taken.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Major Requirements - Overall

Type
Completion Requirement

Earn at least 96 credits
Students must be able to complete the NFS major and graduation requirements in about 96-102 credits, must have an overall GPA of 3.5 and prerequisite GPA of 3.2 or better to be considered.

To become an RD, students must have:

- Completed a minimum of a bachelor's degree at a US regionally accredited university or college
- Completed the DPD coursework (didactic program in dietetics) approved by the the Accreditation Council for Education in Nutrition and Dietetics (ACEND) of the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics (AND),
- Completed an ACEND-accredited supervised practice program such as a dietetic internship (DI). The Hunter DI is described in the graduate catalog and online at www.hunter.cuny.edu/schoolhp/nfs. For further information on the Hunter DI, contact Prof. Ann Gaba at agaba@hunter.cuny.edu.
- Passed a national examination administered by the Commission on Dietetic Registration (CDR).

Career Opportunities for students graduating with this accelerated BS/MS:

Dietetics is an allied health profession which focuses on the food and nutrition intake of individuals and its relationship to health. Registered dietitians are trained in the sciences and are able to translate scientific findings and help people live healthy lives. Major areas of practice include clinical, community, management, and consultant dietetics. More than half of all dietitians and nutritionists are found to work in hospitals, nursing homes, and physician's offices and clinics. More information about career opportunities may be found on the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics's website at http://www.eatright.org

Students take graduate courses after completing 96 credits

Students must have completed the NFS major and academic requirements for their undergraduate degree in about 96 credits, must have an overall GPA of 3.5 and pre-requisite GPA of 3.2 or better to be considered. However, a 3.5 GPA in and of itself does not guarantee admission.

Undergraduates admitted to the program take graduate courses during their senior year and will be able to complete the MS-DPD degree one year after they complete the requirements for the BS (NFS) degree. These students will be admitted directly into the MS-DPD program without having to take the GRE exam. Upon completion of the requirements for the MS degree, both the BS and MS degrees will be awarded. These students will pay undergraduate tuition rates up to the number of credits required to earn a baccalaureate degree (120 cr) and credits taken after that number toward the combined dual degree will be paid at the graduate level. Students interested in this accelerated program should speak to the adviser in the Nutrition track during their sophomore year to review the curriculum path for the five-year program.

Students who have been provisionally accepted into the BS-MS program but who do not maintain the required GPA will not be allowed to continue but will be eligible to receive a BS (NFS) degree from Hunter provided that they fulfill all other academic requirements for their undergraduate degree.

Curriculum Requirements

The accelerated BS/MS is a 137-credit program.

Program Description

The accelerated BS-MS allows students to complete both an undergraduate BS and graduate MS degree within five vs six years, based on full-time study. Admission to the program is competitive with 1-5 academically strong Hunter College NFS BS majors accepted each year.

Completion of the BS-MS satisfies the academic and supervised practice requirements established by the Accreditation Council for Education in Nutrition and Dietetics (ACEND), and qualifies graduates to sit for the RD exam leading to the Registered Dietician (RD) credential.

Major Requirements- Admission Requirements

Type
Completion Requirement

Consideration for admission is in January for students who complete all NFS and Hunter Bachelor's requirements by Summer. Nutrition faculty look for exceptional students demonstrating academic excellence, and who are self-motivated learners exhibiting initiative creativity and community engagement. Final decisions are made by the faculty and there are no appeals. Criteria include:

1. An overall GPA of 3.5 or higher from and completion of no more than 96 credits upon the final NFS course semester. Note: minimum of 3.5 GPA does not guarantee admission

2. BS-MS student must complete NFS BS second semester coursework by the following Spring and Hunter & CUNY Requirements Core by Summer)

BS-MS Admission Protocol

- A BS-MS Supplemental application will be provided to NFS majors December of each academic year with decisions made by mid-January following the posting of Fall grades.
- BS-MS students will take only graduate courses during their senior undergraduate year and complete the MS-Nutrition IPND and complete the IPND MS coursework in their fifth year if attending full-time. Those accepted into the BS-MS must maintain a 3.0 minimum GPA. Those who fall below this minimum will conclude with a BS (NFS), provided that s/he fulfils all other academic requirements for the undergraduate degree.
- Upon completion of the BS-MS course requirements, students receive a 'Verification Statement' indicating completion of the IPND (academic and supervised practice coursework, allowing the student to sit for the national Registered Dietetic examination leading to the Registered Dietetic (RD) credential. IPND Program information is found here
- Students will pay undergraduate tuition rates up to the number of credits required to earn a baccalaureate degree (120); after 120 credits students pay graduate-level tuition rates plus the additional $150 per credit academic excellence fee required for the IPND.

Program Description

The competitive 54-credit Nutrition and Food Science bachelor of science major (NFS-BS) begun junior or senior year is a diverse science-based program where students learn about food and its effect on health. It offers a comprehensive study of the fundamental principles of nutrition, food science and safety, food service management and community nutrition education. This is accomplished through the application of a variety of sciences. Students who like physical and biological sciences, are interested in good health, enjoy working with people, and are concerned about the nutritional well-being of people and communities will find interesting and challenging career opportunities within health care fields or in the food industry. The NFS major at Hunter develops these interests and prepares students for challenging opportunities after graduation.

This major is designed for students who plan to enter the workforce directly out of college. The BS in NFS may be a terminal degree, or NFS graduates may elect to continue on for additional education. Students in the NFS major will take courses in nutrition, food science, food service management, research methods, community nutrition education, and epidemiology.

Along with providing students with a good preparation in nutrition, this major is also a good undergraduate preparation for those who might want to go into allied health fields, social work, or other human service professions. The elective courses also allows these undergraduate students who may wish to pursue medicine, nursing, physical therapy or other health careers to take additional science and other pre-requisite coursework for those programs.

Additional Comments:
Students may take no more than two courses from one department or program to fulfill categories Common Core.

Transfer Students

- Transfer students who have earned an AA/AS degree from an accredited institution, including CUNY, and who matriculated in fall 2013 and after will have fulfilled the Common Core.
- For all other CUNY transfer students, any unmet Common Core requirements must be completed while matriculated at Hunter.
- Non-CUNY transfer students without an AA/AS degree should confer with their adviser to determine whether they have met CCC requirements.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - College Option/Hunter Focus

Type
Completion Requirement

Earn at least 12 credits
The Hunter Focus consists of 12 credits total. The composition of these credits will vary depending on the student’s matriculation status and language proficiency. All students are required to complete the Foreign Language requirement; after that is met, students begin Concentrated Study.

Exceptions:

- Students in the School of Nursing may fulfill their entire 12 credits of Hunter Focus by taking three “STEM variant” science courses in addition to the STEM courses used to fulfill the Common Core.
- Students with a joint major in Education may fulfill their entire 12 credits with courses in Education.

Hunter Focus: Foreign Language

Students must attain fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language. For students with no prior language courses, this proficiency typically consists of completing four courses or a total of 12 credits. Students who have prior language courses, including those from high school, should consult an adviser. Students may apply only one course at each level (Elementary level 1, Elementary level 2, Intermediate level 3, and Intermediate level 4) toward the Hunter Focus. Intensive courses can be used to satisfy the two-course sequence at the Elementary and at the Intermediate levels.

Hunter Focus: Concentrated Study

Once students have completed the Foreign Language requirement, any credits remaining from the 12 required for the Hunter Focus will be used on Concentrated Study. Concentrated Study refers to courses that fulfill requirements for a declared minor, a second major or a certificate. The number of credits required for Concentrated Study ranges from 0-12 and is determined by the number of credits in a foreign language a student must take.

0	12
3	9
6	6

For students who matriculated prior to fall 2019, these three credits are waived.*

For students who matriculated in fall 2019 or after, and who do not also complete a second major, minor, or certificate program, these three credits shall be from a course, at the 200-level or above, on a topic related to the language used for the Foreign Language requirement, in the target language or in English translation.*

Transfer Students

All transfer students must complete the Hunter Focus. For students who first matriculated in an associate program, the number of credits required in the Hunter Focus varies with the number of credits transferred.

CREDITS/DEGREES TRANSFERRED	CREDITS/REQUIRED
Fewer than 30	12
30 or more, without an AA/AS degree	9
AA/AS degree	6

Students who first matriculate in a baccalaureate program must complete 12 credits of Hunter Focus. Any "College Option" credits completed at another CUNY senior college will be applied to the Hunter Focus.

Hunter Focus: Foreign Language

Transfer students must reach or work toward fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language. The number of credits needed to complete the Foreign Language requirement is determined by the student's transfer status, as defined above, and language proficiency at the time of matriculation. Students who have prior language courses, including those from high school, should consult an adviser.

Hunter Focus: Concentrated Study

Once transfer students have completed the Foreign Language requirement, any credits remaining from the Hunter Focus will be used on Concentrated Study as described above.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - Pluralism and Diversity

Type
Completion Requirement

Fulfill ALL of the following requirements:

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group A

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of non-European societies, particularly those of Africa, Asia, Latin America or those indigenous to the Americas.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group B

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives, immigrant experiences and/or intellectual traditions of one or more of the following groups in the United States of America: African Americans, Asian Americans, Latino Americans and Native Americans.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group C

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of women and/or issues of gender or sexual orientation.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group D

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of Europe, including the ways in which pluralism and diversity have been addressed.

Additional Comments:
Students must complete four courses designated for the Pluralism and Diversity Requirement, one from each of four categories. The four categories of Pluralism and Diversity focus on major practical or theoretical issues that emerge from, are reflected in, or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives, and/or intellectual traditions of the following:

A. Non-European societies, particularly those of Africa, Asia, Latin America, or those indigenous to the Americas;

B. One or more of the following groups in the US: African Americans, Asian Americans, Latino Americans, and Native Americans;

C. Women and/or issues of gender or sexual orientation;

D. Europe, including ways in which pluralism and diversity have been addressed.

Any one course with a Pluralism and Diversity designation can satisfy only one Pluralism and Diversity category but may also fulfill any other requirement.

Transfer Students

Transfer students must take at least two courses designated for different categories of the Pluralism and Diversity requirement. The number of courses required in Pluralism and Diversity is determined by the number of credits transferred.

Admission Requirements

The Nutrition and Food Science (NFS) major is a comprehensive study of nutrition and food science. The program is geared to students who are inclined toward the physical and biological sciences, and who are concerned about the health and nutritional well-being of people and communities. While the major is designed for students who plan to enter the workforce directly out of college in the health and wellness area, the academically rigorous curriculum also prepares students for further study, in nutrition and dietetics, food science, research, public and/or allied health.

Nutrition & Food Science is a part of Hunter's Department of Urban Public Health (UPH). NFS classes meet typically once a week at our Silberman departmental campus, 2180 Third Avenue (at 119th Street). Students enter the program in the fall semester and can attend on a full-time or part-time basis during the day. It is recommended that the Hunter Core Requirement - Fall 2013 to Spring 2019 be met before entrance into the NFS major.

Note: The NFS-BS at Hunter College is not a Didactic Program (DPD) in dietetics, leading to the Registered Dietitian (RD). At Hunter/UPH, the DPD is offered at the graduate level.

Requirements for admission into the NFS major are completion of at least 45 credits, including the following courses: two semesters of anatomy and physiology with lab BIOL 12000 and BIOL 12200 or equivalents; one semester of general chemistry with lab CHEM 10000 (STEM) and CHEM 10100 or CHEM 10200 (STEM), CHEM 10400 (STEM), CHEM 10600 (STEM) or equivalents,; one semester of organic chemistry with lab CHEM 12000 (STEM) and CHEM 12100 (STEM) or CHEM 22200 and CHEM 22300 or equivalents; ; one semester of microbiology with lab BIOL 23000 or equivalent; one semester of statistics STAT 11300 or STAT 21300 (STEM); one semester of introductory food science NFS 13100; one semester of introductory nutrition NFS 14100. A grade of C or better must be earned in all science requirements, and a grade of B or better in the two nutrition and food science courses.

The above courses must be completed by the end of the summer session preceding entrance into the NFS major. An overall GPA (combined grade point average from all postsecondary institutions attended) of 2.8 is required for consideration. Because of the competitive nature of the applicant pool and the small size of the incoming class, the admission process may favor applicants with an overall GPA greater than 2.8.

We encourage prospective students to review our website, and to attend an NFS information session held several times throughout the year. Please see http://www.hunter.cuny.edu/nutrition.

Admission Process
Both current Hunter and transfer students must submit a departmental online application open at the UPH/NFS website between Jan 1-Feb 28 for the following Fall semester. Only applicants who will complete all pre-major requirements should complete this application. Note: students may not use/accept Hunter's paper major/minor selection/ change form to apply for the NFS major. In addition to our UPH/NFS application, transfer students must file a City University of New York (CUNY) Transfer (Advanced Standing) application in accordance with CUNY requirements and deadlines. Fall transfer students who will not complete required courses by their entering semester may transfer to Hunter, but should initially select a major for which they qualify upon transfer.

See: http://www.cuny.edu. For additional information the major, including curriculum, see the UPH website: www.hunter.cuny.edu/uph

Program Description

The Nutrition and Wellness (NW) major is a 40-credit program in the Department of Urban Public Health that provides the wellness focus through nutrition courses, without the emphasis on science requirements. This is a diverse and comprehensive program that prepares students to apply nutrition knowledge towards the improvement of health of populations locally and around the world in non-clinical settings such as farmer's markets, after school programs, and other community sites. The curriculum gives students the opportunity to take a variety of courses such as nutrition through the life cycle, cultural foods, community nutrition, and research methods to name but a few, and acquire knowledge and skills in developing nutrition education to promote health and well-being for diverse communities and populations, in addition to individuals.

The Nutrition and Wellness degree will enable students to actively engage in ever-changing health and wellness environments, whether it be public or private. It prepares students for interesting and challenging career opportunities that allow them to focus on the role of food and nutrition in health promotion and disease prevention by developing education resources for diverse populations, as well as implementing programs and policies in various public and private settings like grocery store chains, health clubs, youth centers, corporate wellness, etc.

Students are admitted to the major both fall or spring semesters and must submit our online NW major application (see admissions section.) *Our Fall application opens early September and the Spring application late January.*Students may enter junior or senior year upon completion of prerequisites. Major classes are held at the Department of Urban Public Health (UPH) at Hunter's Silberman campus, 2180 Third Avenue (at 119th Street), and typically meet once a week in the mornings or afternoons Monday-Thursday.

Note:The NW at Hunter College is a general Nutrition BS degree, and is not a Didactic Program in Dietetics (DPD) that enables students to work toward the Registered Dietitian Nutritionist (RDN) *credential. At Hunter, this RDN preparation is offered at the graduate level (MS IPND Program) or, for a small number of select bachelor's students, through the* Accelerated BS/MS Nutrition degree.

Philosophy Department

Overview

Philosophy studies the most fundamental questions that human beings ask — about individual and social action, the possibility and limits of knowledge, the truth and justification of beliefs, human nature and freedom, the existence of God and the operations of nature. Philosophy approaches these questions in a systematic way and philosophers have worked out more or less comprehensive theories to answer them (or show why they cannot be answered). The courses offered by the Philosophy Department are designed to introduce students to the main problems that philosophers study and to the main ideas of such profound and influential thinkers as Socrates, Plato, Aristotle, Augustine, Aquinas, Descartes, Hume and Kant.

Philosophy is one of the most important subjects a student can study because it develops the ability to reason clearly and critically, to write thoughtfully, to use intelligence and logic to deal with problems all too often ruled by emotion and prejudice. Philosophy also helps one develop intellectual flexibility and learn to appreciate ideas and beliefs other than those of one's own time, place, class or group. Since it develops these intellectual abilities and habits, the study of philosophy, either in individual courses or as a major or minor, is excellent preparation for any profession or occupation.

Students of philosophy pursue careers in law, business, medicine, government and the arts. Some go on to study philosophy at the graduate level with the aim either of teaching philosophy or of obtaining an advanced degree to further their career objectives.

What can I do with a degree in Philosophy?

Philosophy majors pursue many different careers. Philosophy courses are designed to provide skills that can be used across many fields, rather than to prepare you for a single career. Philosophy prepares students to pursue graduate studies in a variety of fields. Philosophy majors perform extremely well on graduate schools entrance exams and score higher on the GRE than graduates of other majors. Philosophy majors also are among the top performers on the LSAT and GMAT. But pursuing philosophy can also be intrinsically valuable—not just as a means to some end, but as an end in itself. To do philosophy—and, in particular, to do it well—is to exercise your mind in ways that reveal how powerful, creative, and open it can be.

Learning Outcomes: Philosophy B.A.

1. (EXPOSITORY SKILLS) Students should be able to present and explain important philosophical problems and positions orally or in writing.
2. (READING COMPREHENSION SKILLS) Students should be able to analyze a philosophical text presenting the main points made identifying the supporting arguments given and the key principles assumed.
3. (CRITICAL ANALYSIS SKILLS) Students will be able to critically evaluate a philosophical argument assessing the acceptability of the premises the strength of support given to the conclusion taking into account challenges from alternative positions.
4. (THESIS DEFENSE.ARGUMENTATIVE SKILLS) Students will be able to write a paper in which they advance a clearly stated thesis and defend it by logically developing key ideas and arguments using knowledge of relevant philosophical problems and making appropriate use and citation of professional philosophical literature.
5. (CONTENT KNOWLEDGE) Students will be able to apply orally or in writing key philosophical concepts to address social and ethical problems or central issues in our understanding of knowledge the world the natural and social sciences art and literature mind and language.

Course Listings

The department especially encourages students majoring in or interested in philosophy, both with fewer than 6 credits toward the major in philosophy, to consult with a departmental advisor about courses and their prerequisites at this stage of their academic career.

LOGIC-MIN - Logic

General

CIP Code
38.0102

Program Description
Currently, logic is studied by three distinct disciplines–Computer Science, Mathematics, and Philosophy. This minor is interdisciplinary and will introduce students to the questions about logic that these disciplines raise, their methods for investigating these questions, and applications these disciplines may find for logic. Symbolic Logic is the foundational course, prerequisite for the current three advanced-level courses. Students must take this course prior to declaring the Minor in Logic. Each of the three disciplines is represented by an advanced-level course.

Program Description

Honors

To be eligible for graduation with departmental honors in philosophy, a major must have at least a 3.50 GPA in philosophy, at least a 3.0 overall GPA. The student must register for the 3- or 6-credit PHILO 49400, which is taken in addition to and is not part of the 30 credits for the major. The student must write a substantial paper under the direction of a full-time faculty member. To receive departmental honors the completed paper must be submitted to a three-member committee who will judge whether it merits departmental honors. This committee will consist of the director of the student's Honors Tutorial and two other full-time philosophy faculty members appointed by the director.

· PHILO49400 Honors Tutorial - Honors Tutorial in Philosophy

Independent Study

Students may engage in independent study under the supervision of a member of the Philosophy department by receiving permission to take the following.

· PHILO49200 Readings in Philo - Independent Study in Philosophy

Transfer Students

- Transfer students who have earned an AA/AS degree from an accredited institution, including CUNY, and who matriculated in fall 2013 and after will have fulfilled the Common Core.
- For all other CUNY transfer students, any unmet Common Core requirements must be completed while matriculated at Hunter.
- Non-CUNY transfer students without an AA/AS degree should confer with their adviser to determine whether they have met CCC requirements.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - College Option/Hunter Focus

Type
Completion Requirement

Earn at least 12 credits
The Hunter Focus consists of 12 credits total. The composition of these credits will vary depending on the student's matriculation status and language proficiency. All students are required to complete the Foreign Language requirement; after that is met, students begin Concentrated Study.

Exceptions:

- Students in the School of Nursing may fulfill their entire 12 credits of Hunter Focus by taking three "STEM variant" science courses in addition to the STEM courses used to fulfill the Common Core.
- Students with a joint major in Education may fulfill their entire 12 credits with courses in Education.

Hunter Focus: Foreign Language

Students must attain fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language. For students with no prior language courses, this proficiency typically consists of completing four courses or a total of 12 credits. Students who have prior language courses, including those from high school, should consult an adviser. Students may apply only one course at each level (Elementary level 1, Elementary level 2, Intermediate level 3, and Intermediate level 4) toward the Hunter Focus. Intensive courses can be used to satisfy the two-course sequence at the Elementary and at the Intermediate levels.

Hunter Focus: Concentrated Study

Once students have completed the Foreign Language requirement, any credits remaining from the 12 required for the Hunter Focus will be used on Concentrated Study. Concentrated Study refers to courses that fulfill requirements for a declared minor, a second major or a certificate. The number of credits required for Concentrated Study ranges from 0-12 and is determined by the number of credits in a foreign language a student must take.

CREDITS OF FOREIGN LANGUAGE NEEDED	CREDITS OF CONCENTRATED STUDY NEEDED
3	9
6	6

For students who matriculated prior to fall 2019, these three credits are waived.*

For students who matriculated in fall 2019 or after, and who do not also complete a second major, minor, or certificate program, these three credits shall be from a course, at the 200-level or above, on a topic related to the language used for the Foreign Language requirement, in the target language or in English translation.*

Transfer Students

All transfer students must complete the Hunter Focus. For students who first matriculated in an associate program, the number of credits required in the Hunter Focus varies with the number of credits transferred.

CREDITS/DEGREES TRANSFERRED	CREDITS/REQUIRED
Fewer than 30	12
30 or more, without an AA/AS degree	9
AA/AS degree	6

Students who first matriculate in a baccalaureate program must complete 12 credits of Hunter Focus. Any "College Option" credits completed at another CUNY senior college will be applied to the Hunter Focus.

Hunter Focus: Foreign Language

Transfer students must reach or work toward fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language. The number of credits needed to complete the Foreign Language requirement is determined by the student's transfer status, as defined above, and language proficiency at the time of matriculation. Students who have prior language courses, including those from high school, should consult an adviser.

Hunter Focus: Concentrated Study

Once transfer students have completed the Foreign Language requirement, any credits remaining from the Hunter Focus will be used on Concentrated Study as described above.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - Pluralism and Diversity

Type
Completion Requirement

Fulfill ALL of the following requirements:

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group A

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of non-European societies, particularly those of Africa, Asia, Latin America or those indigenous to the Americas.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group B

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives, immigrant experiences and/or intellectual traditions of one or more of the following groups in the United States of America: African Americans, Asian Americans, Latino Americans and Native Americans.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group C

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of women and/or issues of gender or sexual orientation.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group D

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of Europe, including the ways in which pluralism and diversity have been addressed.

Additional Comments:
Students must complete four courses designated for the Pluralism and Diversity Requirement, one from each of four categories. The four categories of Pluralism and Diversity focus on major practical or theoretical issues that emerge from, are reflected in, or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives, and/or intellectual traditions of the following:

A. Non-European societies, particularly those of Africa, Asia, Latin America, or those indigenous to the Americas;

B. One or more of the following groups in the US: African Americans, Asian Americans, Latino Americans, and Native Americans;

C. Women and/or issues of gender or sexual orientation;

D. Europe, including ways in which pluralism and diversity have been addressed.

Any one course with a Pluralism and Diversity designation can satisfy only one Pluralism and Diversity category but may also fulfill any other requirement.

Transfer Students

Transfer students must take at least two courses designated for different categories of the Pluralism and Diversity requirement. The number of courses required in Pluralism and Diversity is determined by the number of credits transferred.

CREDITS TRANSFERRED	COURSES REQUIRED
Fewer than 31	4
31 or more	2

Any one course with a Pluralism and Diversity designation can only satisfy one Pluralism and Diversity category but may also fulfill any other requirement.

POLTHY-MIN - Political Theory

General

CIP Code
45.1001

Program Description
The Political Theory Minor provides a concentration of study for students interested in political, social, and legal philosophy or thought, often related to public discourses, practices, and laws. It recognizes the interdisciplinary character of political theory, which operates at the intersection of the humanities and social sciences. It focuses on critical issues of ethics and power in history and the present, along with major authors in the traditions of political philosophy and thought.

The minor program consists of at least 15 credits taken from the courses listed below, or others as approved by the minor program advisor. Students must take at least 6 credits in philosophy and 6 credits in political science, including PHILO 10600 (or another 100-level PHILO course, with permission of the Advisor) and POLSC 20000. At least 3 credits must be taken at the 300-level, and one course must be taken from each of the three Minor categories (listed below). No more than six credits that count towards the student's major may be used to fulfill this Minor.

PHILO 20093 - Environmental Philosophy (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Environmental Philosophy

Catalog Description
Traditionally, environmental ethics has been concerned with the moral basis of our relationship to the natural world, such as our obligations to non-human animals, plants, and entire ecosystems. However, more recently, the broader discipline of environmental philosophy has taken on a wider range of philosophical and ethical issues. This course is an introduction to and a survey of some of those issues.

PHILO 37300 - Philosophy of History (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Philosophy of History

Catalog Description
This course is designed to introduce students to what philosophers have had to say about history—both in terms of its meaning, if any, and of how to explain and narrate historical events. We will survey the major theories about the philosophy of history, the problems with the concept of historical explanation and interpretation, as well as a variety of major philosophers' attempts to solve these problems. We will also consider how history relates to cognate disciplines in the sciences, social sciences, and humanities.

PHILO 38020 - Plotinus (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Plotinus

Catalog Description
A study of the background, writings, and legacy of Plotinus. Plotinus is considered to be, with Plato and Aristotle, one of the greatest philosophers of the ancient world and the single most important figure of ancient philosophy from Aristotle's death in 323 B.C.E. to the end of the ancient philosophical schools in 529 C.E. His Enneads articulate a powerful and extensive synthesis of Platonic, Aristotelian, and Stoic ideas along with the mystical and religious currents of thought of late anitquity, now known as Neoplatonism. Through the mediation of his followers, Porphyry, Proclus, and Augustine, Plotinus was a principal influence in medieval Christian, Jewish, and Islamic philosophy, Renaissance and Early Modern Philosophy. The principal goals of the course are to understand the sources and nature of his philosophic system through a careful reading of the Enneads.

PHILO 39473 - Philosophical Problems: Sense and Perception (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Philosophical Problems: Sense and Perception

Catalog Description
In this course we will consider three philosophical issues that arise concerning sensory perception. The first issue concerns the common sense assumption that sensory perception takes place in humans through five sense modalities - seeing, hearing, touch, taste and smell. The second issue concerns whether or on what grounds one can limit what is known or represented in sensory perception. For example, do we hear bells or only sounds (and then infer the existence of bells)? The third issue concerns how we should conceive the causal processes that enable us to perceive the world. In considering these issues, we will rely on material from the history of philosophy as well as work done in the 20th and early 21st centuries. We will begin by doing essential background work on these issues from the history of philosophy. We will then more explicitly consider the three issues by reading works of recent and contemporary philosophers.

PHILO 39475 - Democratic Theory (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Democratic Theory

Catalog Description
Democracy is a notion that is frequently taken for granted in practical life. Philosophers, however, have offered divergent understandings of its meaning, and have given alternative, even conflicting, justifications of the sources of its value. This course will focus on the challenging questions of the philosophical foundations of democracy, and particularly on the question of how to effectively justify it. We will consider egalitarian approaches (e.g., Christiano), epistemic approaches (Estlund), deliberative perspectives (e.g., Habermas, Cohen) and common activity approaches (e.g., Gould). Consideration will be given to whether democracy is only instrumentally valuable or is intrinsically so. We will discuss whether democracy is a human right and whether recognizing it as such might be too demanding for the range of contemporary cultures and societies around the world. The course will go on to consider two key questions: 1) What is the proper scope of democracy, i.e., to whom does it extend, only citizens within a nation state or across borders as well? And is democracy only a political notion or is it also relevant to economic and social institutions? 2) What form should democracy take? representative or participatory, especially in view of the new opportunities opened by the internet. The course will then consider a range of questions concerning democracy and gender, including the relation of democracy to interpersonal and social contexts (e.g., the family) and the issue of more effectively representing the perspectives of women within politics. We will conclude by discussing some new questions posed for democracy by globalization and in particular whether there is a role for transnational or even fully global forms of democracy in the contemporary period.

PHILO 39476 - Philo Prob: Philosophy Biology (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Philo Prob: Philosophy Biology

Catalog Description
This course will introduce the student to conceptual, ethical, social, and methodological questions concerning biology. Today, biology shapes our collective understanding of ourselves more than any other scientific discipline. It is not uncommon, for example, to read about the discovery of genes for complex psychological traits such as shyness, extroversion, intelligence, anxiety, or mental disorders such as schizophrenia. Evolutionary biologists, psychologists, and journalists have pointed to our evolutionary heritage to argue for, or against, our capacity for altruism, cooperation, or long-term fidelity. Discoveries in neuroscience frequently challenge traditional beliefs about the nature of consciousness, free will, and criminal responsibility. Biomedicine and psychiatry play a profound role in shaping our understanding of what kinds of bodies and minds are healthy or pathological, 'normal' or 'abnormal', and these ideas influence health care legislation and psychiatric classification. We will address questions from four major areas of biology: evolutionary biology, molecular biology and genetics, neuroscience, and biomedicine and psychiatry. Given the impact of biology for understanding human nature and society, it is of paramount importance for educated citizens to have a clear understanding of some of the major philosophical issues that emerge from different biological disciplines.

Physical Therapy Department

Overview

Since the late 1960's and the founding of the School of Health Sciences, Hunter College has provided excellence in physical therapy education and other health professions. Information sessions for the DPT program are scheduled across the year - see top right corner for additional information. We invite you to attend an information session after you have perused "Admissions" for information on admission requirements and the process of applying to the DPT program. Please sign up in advance – we look forward to meeting you there. Admissions should happen through the Hunter College Graduate Admissions office. DPT program application forms are available here.

The DPT Program is accredited by the Commission on Accreditation in Physical Therapy Education (CAPTE),3030 Potomac Ave., Suite 100, Alexandria, Virginial 22305-3085. For additional information on our graduates' performance on the Physical Therapy licensure examination, graduation rates and employment rates, please go to question #6 in our frequently asked questions page (FAQ's). Feedback on Hunter's Physical Therapy Program is available at Comments & Reviews.

For general information regarding tuition, dorms, post-professional DPT programs, information on foreign trained physical therapists, and other frequently asked questions, please see the FAQ section.Our program, along with many PT programs in the US, has agreed not to participate in survey's ranking PT education programs. For additional information on why we do not participate, click here.

Physics and Astronomy Department

Overview

Physics is the study of the basic interactions that govern the behavior of the universe as we know it. As such, a knowledge of physics is necessary for the proper understanding of any science, and, of course, it is an exciting field of study in its own right. The primary mission of the Department of Physics and Astronomy is to provide an outstanding education for our students. Our curriculum serves undergraduate liberal arts students who seek, by the study of physics, to acquire critical thinking skills and develop the understanding and problem-solving abilities which are increasingly needed in our technological society. Undergraduate science majors pursue courses of study such as pre-medicine and computer science, in which a sound foundation in physics is essential to further advancement. The major includes lecture courses, laboratory courses, and a chance for qualified students to participate in research with faculty members.

What can I do with my degree in Physics?

The department offers comprehensive training in physics that can lead to industrial, institutional and government work; graduate study, and a teaching position in grades 7-12.

Learning Outcomes: Physics BA

1. Proficiency in mathematics and ability to express and analyze physical concepts using mathematics.
2. Knowledge in core areas of physics including classical mechanics quantum mechanics electromagnetism and thermal physics and be able to apply this knowledge to analyze a broad range of physical phenomena.
3. Laboratory skills which enable them to take measurements in a physics laboratory and analyze the measurements to draw conclusions.

4. Oral and written scientific communication and critical thinking.

Physics for Non-Physics Majors

A minimum of one year of physics is recommended for all majors in sciences and health sciences. Medical and dental schools also require one year of physics. Students requiring one year of physics may take either the PHYS 11000 (STEM)-PHYS 12000 (STEM) sequence (9 cr) or the PHYS 11100 (STEM)-PHYS 12100 (STEM) sequence (11 cr). Although both sequences cover the same topics, PHYS 11100 (STEM)-PHYS 12100 (STEM) utilizes elementary calculus and meets for one additional lecture hour each week. It is recommended for science students and those premed students who satisfy the mathematics prerequisite. PHYS 10000 (3 cr) should be taken only by those who want a one semester terminal course in physics; it does not satisfy pre-professional requirements. Students should take no more than one first-semester course (PHYS 10100, PHYS 11000 (STEM), PHYS 11100 (STEM)) and no more than one second-semester course (PHYS 12000 (STEM), PHYS 12100 (STEM)) since they may receive credit for no more than one course from each group.

Program Description
Our undergraduate curriculum serves undergraduate liberal arts students who seek, by the study of Physics, to acquire critical thinking skills and develop the understanding and problem-solving abilities which are increasingly needed in our technological society. We prepare our undergraduate physics majors for graduate and professional schools or a variety of careers, including teaching, engineering, medicine, computer science, and industrial research and development.

Honors Work

The opportunity for students to do individual research (experimental or theoretical) is offered in courses

- PHYS 45300 - Introduction to Research
- PHYS 45400 - Introduction to Research

Articulation Agreement

Articulation Agreement with New York City College of Technology

An agreement is in place for students from New York City College of Technology (CUNY) who successfully complete an associate degree in science in Liberal Arts (LAS) with at least a 2.0 overall grade-point average to be accepted into the Hunter College BA program in Physics. Consult the physics and astronomy department for further information.

Requirements

Simple Requirements

(No Requirement Levels)

Degree Requirements - Bachelor of Arts

Type
Completion Requirement

Fulfill ALL of the following requirements:

Earn at least 120 credits

AND

Earn at least 30 credits
In Residence at Hunter College

AND

Earn at least 90 credits
Liberal Arts and Sciences Content Courses

AND

Earn a minimum GPA of 2.0

General Education Requirements - Common Core

Type
Completion Requirement

Fulfill ALL of the following requirements:

Earn at least 6 credits from the following:
- Required Core English Composition

Students who receive an “exemption” for ENGL 12000 or for a course in English Comp 2 are deemed to have fulfilled English Composition 1 or 2, respectively.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Required Core Mathematical and Quantitative Reasoning

Some courses in this categories carry more than 3 credits (the “STEM variant” courses). Students who elect to take these courses may apply only three credits towards fulfilling the Common Core.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Required Core Life and Physical Sciences

Some courses in this categories carry more than 3 credits (the “STEM variant” courses). Students who elect to take these courses may apply only three credits towards fulfilling the Common Core.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Flexible Core Scientific World

Some courses in this categories carry more than 3 credits (the “STEM variant” courses). Students who elect to take these courses may apply only three credits towards fulfilling the Common Core.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Flexible Core Creative Expression

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Flexible Core U.S. Experience in Its Diversity

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Flexible Core World Cultures and Global Issues

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Flexible Core Individual and Society Social Science

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Flexible Core Individual and Society Humanities

Additional Comments:
Students may take no more than two courses from one department or program to fulfill categories Common Core.

Transfer Students

- Transfer students who have earned an AA/AS degree from an accredited institution, including CUNY, and who matriculated in fall 2013 and after will have fulfilled the Common Core.
- For all other CUNY transfer students, any unmet Common Core requirements must be completed while matriculated at Hunter.
- Non-CUNY transfer students without an AA/AS degree should confer with their adviser to determine whether they have met CCC requirements.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - College Option/Hunter Focus

Type
Completion Requirement

Earn at least 12 credits
The Hunter Focus consists of 12 credits total. The composition of these credits will vary depending on the student's matriculation status and language proficiency. All students are required to complete the Foreign Language requirement; after that is met, students begin Concentrated Study.

Exceptions:

- Students in the School of Nursing may fulfill their entire 12 credits of Hunter Focus by taking three "STEM variant" science courses in addition to the STEM courses used to fulfill the Common Core.
- Students with a joint major in Education may fulfill their entire 12 credits with courses in Education.

Hunter Focus: Foreign Language

Students must attain fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language. For students with no prior language courses, this proficiency typically consists of completing four courses or a total of 12 credits. Students who have prior language courses, including those from high school, should consult an adviser. Students may apply only one course at each level (Elementary level 1, Elementary level 2, Intermediate level 3, and Intermediate level 4) toward the Hunter Focus. Intensive courses can be used to satisfy the two-course sequence at the Elementary and at the Intermediate levels.

Hunter Focus: Concentrated Study

Once students have completed the Foreign Language requirement, any credits remaining from the 12 required for the Hunter Focus will be used on Concentrated Study. Concentrated Study refers to courses that fulfill requirements for a declared minor, a second major or a certificate. The number of credits required for Concentrated Study ranges from 0-12 and is determined by the number of credits in a foreign language a student must take.

CREDITS OF FOREIGN LANGUAGE NEEDED	CREDITS OF CONCENTRATED STUDY NEEDED
3	9
6	6

For students who matriculated prior to fall 2019, these three credits are waived.*

For students who matriculated in fall 2019 or after, and who do not also complete a second major, minor, or certificate program, these three credits shall be from a course, at the 200-level or above, on a topic related to the language used for the Foreign Language requirement, in the target language or in English translation.*

Transfer Students

All transfer students must complete the Hunter Focus. For students who first matriculated in an associate program, the number of credits required in the Hunter Focus varies with the number of credits transferred.

CREDITS/DEGREES TRANSFERRED	CREDITS/REQUIRED
Fewer than 30	12
30 or more, without an AA/AS degree	9
AA/AS degree	6

Students who first matriculate in a baccalaureate program must complete 12 credits of Hunter Focus. Any "College Option" credits completed at another CUNY senior college will be applied to the Hunter Focus.

Hunter Focus: Foreign Language

Transfer students must reach or work toward fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language. The number of credits needed to complete the Foreign Language requirement is determined by the student's transfer status, as defined above, and language proficiency at the time of matriculation. Students who have prior language courses, including those from high school, should consult an adviser.

Hunter Focus: Concentrated Study

Once transfer students have completed the Foreign Language requirement, any credits remaining from the Hunter Focus will be used on Concentrated Study as described above.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - Pluralism and Diversity

Type
Completion Requirement

Fulfill ALL of the following requirements:

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group A

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of non-European societies, particularly those of Africa, Asia, Latin America or those indigenous to the Americas.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group B

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives, immigrant experiences and/or intellectual traditions of one or more of the following groups in the United States of America: African Americans, Asian Americans, Latino Americans and Native Americans.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group C

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of women and/or issues of gender or sexual orientation.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group D

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of Europe, including the ways in which pluralism and diversity have been addressed.

Additional Comments:
Students must complete four courses designated for the Pluralism and Diversity Requirement, one from each of four categories. The four categories of Pluralism and Diversity focus on major practical or theoretical issues that emerge from, are reflected in, or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives, and/or intellectual traditions of the following:

A. Non-European societies, particularly those of Africa, Asia, Latin America, or those indigenous to the Americas;

B. One or more of the following groups in the US: African Americans, Asian Americans, Latino Americans, and Native Americans;

C. Women and/or issues of gender or sexual orientation;

D. Europe, including ways in which pluralism and diversity have been addressed.

Any one course with a Pluralism and Diversity designation can satisfy only one Pluralism and Diversity category but may also fulfill any other requirement.

Transfer Students

Transfer students must take at least two courses designated for different categories of the Pluralism and Diversity requirement. The number of courses required in Pluralism and Diversity is determined by the number of credits transferred.

CREDITS TRANSFERRED	COURSES REQUIRED
Fewer than 31	4
31 or more	2

Any one course with a Pluralism and Diversity designation can only satisfy one Pluralism and Diversity category but may also fulfill any other requirement.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - Writing Intensive

Type
Completion Requirement

Complete at least 1 course in the following course sets:

- Writing Intensive

Transfer Students

Transfer students must take at least one Writing Intensive course, designated with a “W” in the catalog, at Hunter College. The number of Writing Intensive courses required is determined by the number of credits transferred.

CREDITS TRANSFERRED	"W" COURSES REQUIRED
Fewer than 30	3
31-59	2
60 or more	1

Note: Specific sections of courses containing significant writing are listed with a W designation in the Schedule of Classes. Please note that not all sections of a course are necessarily offered with significant writing. To satisfy the Writing Requirement a section designated as W in the Schedule of Classes must be taken.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Major Requirements - Overall

Type
Completion Requirement

Earn at least 53 credits

Major Requirements - Option 1

Type
Completion Requirement

Fulfill ALL of the following requirements:

Introductory Math Sequence: Earn 0-17 credits from the following

Complete ANY of the following Courses:

- MATH 10100 - Algebra for College Students
  OR MATH 101EN - Algebra College Stud-Enhanced
- MATH 10150 - Mastery of Symbolic Computation
- MATH 12400 - College Algebra and Trigonometry

  OR MATH 12550 - Precalculus with Workshop
- MATH 14000 - Mathematical Reasoning Workshop
- MATH 15000 - Calculus I
- MATH 15500 - Calculus 2

These courses may be counted for credit in more than one program:

- MATH10100 Algebra for College Students
- MATH101EN Algebra College Stud-Enhanced
- MATH10150 Mastery Symbolic Computation
- MATH12400 College Algebra & Trig
- MATH12500 Precalculus
- MATH12550 Precalculus with Workshop
- MATH14000 Mathematical Reasoning Wksp
- MATH15000 Calculus I
- MATH15200 Calc for Life and Soc Science

AND

Earn at least 11 credits from the following:

- PHYS 11100 - Gen Mech-Heat-Snd
- PHYS 12100 - Gen Elec-Magnetsm

AND

Complete ALL of the following Courses:

- PHYS 22100 - Electronics
- PHYS 33000 - Atomic and Nuclear Physics
- PHYS 33400 - Intermediate Electricity and Magnetism
- PHYS 33500 - Intermediate Mechanics

AND

Complete at least 3 of the following courses:

- PHYS 22200 - Electronics Laboratory
- PHYS 23000 - Classical Physics Laboratory
- PHYS 23500 - Modern Physics Laboratory
- PHYS 38500 - Numerical Methods for Classical Physics
- PHYS 48500 - Numerical Methods for Modern Physics

AND

Earn at least 19 credits from the following:

- MATH 15600 - Intr Math Proof Wrks
- MATH 25000 - Calculus 3
- MATH 25400 - Ordinary Differential Equations
- CHEM 10200 - General Chemistry 1
- CHEM 10400 - General Chemistry 2
- CHEM 10600 - General Chemistry Lab

* These courses may be counted for credit in more than one program.

NOTE: The chemistry courses may be substituted by one year of high-school-level chemistry. Together, the introductory physics (11 credits) and the Option 1 22-24 credit concentration in physics satisfy the major requirement for initial certification as a teacher of physics in grades 7-12. Option 1, together with the MA (see the Physics - BA/MA), is recommended for students planning to pursue a PhD in physics.

Additional Comments:
Students cannot receive a grade of P/NC in PHYS 11100, PHYS 12100, and all PHYS courses above 200.

Major Requirements - Option 2

Type
Completion Requirement

Fulfill ALL of the following requirements:

Earn at least 27 credits from the following:

- PHYS 11100 - Gen Mech-Heat-Snd
- PHYS 12100 - Gen Elec-Magnetsm
- PHYS 33000 - Atomic and Nuclear Physics
- PHYS 33400 - Intermediate Electricity and Magnetism
- PHYS 33600 - Thermodynamics and Statistical Mechanics
- PHYS 42000 - Introduction to Biophysics

AND

Earn at least 5 credits from the following:

- MATH 10100 - Algebra for College Students
- MATH 101EN - Algebra College Stud-Enhanced
- MATH 10150 - Mastery of Symbolic Computation
- MATH 12400 - College Algebra and Trigonometry

- MATH101EN Algebra College Stud-Enhanced
- MATH10150 Mastery Symbolic Computation
- MATH12400 College Algebra & Trig
- MATH12500 Precalculus
- MATH12550 Precalculus with Workshop
- MATH14000 Mathematical Reasoning Wksp
- MATH15000 Calculus I

- MATH15200 Calc for Life and Soc Science

AND

Earn at least 15 credits from the following:

- CHEM 10200 - General Chemistry 1
- CHEM 10400 - General Chemistry 2
- CHEM 10600 - General Chemistry Lab
- CHEM 22206 - Organic Chemistry 1 (Lec)

AND

Complete ALL of the following Courses:

- BIOL 10000 - Principles of Biology 1
- BIOL 10200 - Principles of Biology 2
- BIOL 20300 - Molecular Biology and Genetics
- BIOL 30000 - Biological Chemistry

Based on placement exams or transferred courses, students may place into some more advanced Mathematics and Statistics courses without taking Hunter College prerequisites. See the Mathematics and Statistics department for details.

Additional Comments:
Students cannot receive a grade of P/NC in PHYS 11100, PHYS 12100, and all PHYS courses above 200.

General

Course Title
Numerical Methods for Modern Physics

Catalog Description
The course will focus on the numerical solution of some representative partial differential equations occurring in physics (e.g. the wave equation, the diffusion equation, Poisson equation, and the Schrödinger equation). Implicit and explicit numerical methods will be examined as well as relaxation methods. Also the conditions for the stability of the numerical solution will be derived and discussed. Curve fitting techniques and the numerical form of the Fourier series and especially the so-called Fast Fourier Transform will be learned.

Political Science Department

Overview

Political science deals with the various political, social, economic, and cultural arrangements through which people govern their lives. It attempts to interpret the past and explain the present, and often dares to draw images of the future. As a field of study, it covers several fields, from the evolution of political philosophy and the implications of contemporary political concepts to the problems of development in emerging nations, from the performance American government at the local, state, and national levels to the interaction of peoples and states in the international arena. In short, the discipline ranges across broad and diverse areas of inquiry.

Many people think of politics in terms of what governments do, but political science also covers much else. Students will find courses on the ideas of great thinkers from Plato to the present, the problems of cities, war and peace, democratic and authoritarian political systems, international political economy, human rights, women and politics, political parties and forms of political participation that include interest groups and social movements, constitutional and international law, public policies such as immigration, the domestic and foreign policies of the United States and other countries, and the political systems of various regions around the world including the Middle East, Latin America, Africa, and Asia.

What can I do with my degree in Political Science?

Some political science majors choose to enter public service upon completing their bachelor's degrees, working for government agencies or nonprofit organizations. Other popular careers have included teaching, business, and journalism. Still other graduates enter politics. Many pursue law school – more political science majors attend law school than majors from any other department at the college – or some other kind of graduate training. Graduates have earned advanced degrees in international affairs, public policy, public administration, journalism, social work, and other fields. In sum, political science prepares students for a variety of career opportunities as well as for a lifetime of active citizenship.

Learning Outcomes: Political Science B.A.

1. Comprehend the complex political science texts and understand how they relate to specific political topics and questions.
2. Understand abstract political theories discuss the major schools of thought in political science and recognize and describe key political institutions and features of political systems.
3. Orally describe arguments found in political science including the nature of the evidence on which they are based and to deliver a clear and coherent oral critique of the texts which they engage.
4. Students written work will demonstrate an ability to critically examine arguments contained in POLSC texts on the basis of quality of the argumentation evidence used reasonableness of assumptions and normative and policy implications the author seeks to advance.
5. Assess student written work on whether they demonstrate an ability to generate answerable research questions of relevance to POL select appropriate theories and concepts through which to address them and marshal compelling evidence in support of empirical and normative arguments.

Programs

INTREL-MIN - International Relations

General

CIP Code
45.0901

Program Description
The International Relations (IR) minor is an inter-disciplinary course of study that allows students to examine international relations from different perspectives within a liberal arts curriculum. The International Relations minor introduces students to the major themes in IR: IR theories and approaches, peace and security, international political economy, foreign policy, and international norms and institutions.

Requirements

Simple Requirements

(No Requirement Levels)

Minor Requirements - Overall

Type
Completion Requirement

Earn at least 15 credits

Additional Comments:
- Students are required to complete at least one course from Group A and at least one course from two of the other four categories (Groups B-E).
- Students can take no more than three courses from one department.
- Students may not use more than one 100-level course towards completion of the IR minor
- Students must complete at least one 300-level course to fulfill the requirements of the IR minor.
- No more than two courses from the student's major can be applied toward the IR minor.

Minor Requirements - Required Courses

Type
Completion Requirement

A. IR Theories and Approaches

Complete at least 1 of the following courses:
- ECO 20000 - Principles of Microeconomics
- ECO 20100 - Principles of Macroeconomics
- GEOG 24400 - Political Geography
- POLSC 11500 - Introduction to International Relations
- POLSC 27000 - International Relations: Conceptual Foundations and Current Issues
- POLSC 37700 - Theories of International Politics
- These courses teach students the skills necessary to think and write clearly about IR.

B. Foreign Policy and Analysis

Complete at least 1 of the following courses:
- POLSC 20600 - Research Design in Political Science
- POLSC 27600 - Global Issues
- POLSC 27400 - American Foreign Policy
- POLSC 37800 - Russia in a Globalized World
- ECO 22100 - Economic Statistics
- POLSC 27100 - International Politics in the Americas OR HIST 34100 - Topics in History
- HIST 34115 - Humanrts/Bas Needs A
- These courses emphasize the foreign policies of countries or regions and research design and methods in IR.

C. International Norms and Institutions

Complete at least 1 of the following courses:
- POLSC 27800 - International Organizations
- POLSC 28100 - Drugs, Politics, and Public Policy
- POLSC 37400 - International Human Rights
- POLSC 37500 - International Law
- POLSC 38300 - Rising Powers, China, the U.S. and World Order

Additional Comments:
Students are required to complete at least one course from Group A and at least one course from two of the other four categories (Groups B-E).

LEGAL-MIN - Legal Studies

General

CIP Code
22.0000

Program Description
The Legal Studies minor is an interdisciplinary course of study that allows students to examine the role and development of law from different perspectives within a liberal arts curriculum. Legal studies students will be introduced to the study of judicial opinions, theories of law and legal interpretation, the structure and role of legal institutions, and the operation of law in history and everyday life. Law is a central feature of political, social, and economic life. The legal studies minor will prepare students embarking on careers in government, business, or the non-profit sector to think broadly and critically about the nature of law. It will also be extremely helpful for any students planning to pursue graduate study focusing on law or legal institutions, in a wide variety of disciplines. The legal studies program places an emphasis on developing students' communication skills, interdisciplinary scholarship and a commitment to connect undergraduate education to advanced career opportunities. The core of the legal studies minor, though, is a commitment to the study of law within the liberal arts tradition.

While there are many ways for students to prepare successfully for law school, an advantage of the legal studies minor is its ability to help the college identify students planning to apply to law school, to ensure that these students receive guidance on the application process as early as possible, and to give them a solid foundation when they enter law school.

Foundations of Legal Studies

Complete at least 1 of the following courses:

- PHILO 10300 - Introduction to Logic and Critical Thinking
- PHILO 10600 - Philosophy, Politics, and Society
- POLSC 11000 - American Government: A Historical Introduction
  OR POLSC 11100 - Introduction to American Government and Politics
- PHILO 17000 - Introduction to Logic and Scientific Method

- These courses teach students foundational knowledge and skills that are important for thinking and writing clearly about law.

Legal Institutions and Legal Processes

Complete at least 1 of the following courses:

- ASIAN 39002 - Asian American Civil Rights and the Law
- HIST 36400 - American Constitutional History 1783 to 1900
- MEDIA 39400 - Media and Law in the Digital Age
- POLSC 21900 - Gender and the Law
- POLSC 23500 - The American Congress

- POLSC 34000 - Constitutional Law: Organizing the Government
- POLSC 34100 - Constitutional Law: Civil Rights and Liberties
- POLSC 34200 - Constitutional Law: The First Amendment

- These courses emphasize the "law on the books," the way relative insiders, like legal theorists and judges, talk about the content of law. Courses in this category introduce students to judicial opinions as well as normative theories about the way law should be interpreted

Additional Comments:

- Students are required to complete at least one course from within each of the three categories above.
- Students can take no more than three courses from one department.
- No more than two courses from the student's major can be applied toward the Legal Studies minor.
- Courses used to fulfill the Legal Studies minor may be used to meet any other degree requirements, including the political science major.
- Students should be aware that courses listed for this minor may have prerequisites within their home departments.

Transfer Students

- Transfer students who have earned an AA/AS degree from an accredited institution, including CUNY, and who matriculated in fall 2013 and after will have fulfilled the Common Core.
- For all other CUNY transfer students, any unmet Common Core requirements must be completed while matriculated at Hunter.
- Non-CUNY transfer students without an AA/AS degree should confer with their adviser to determine whether they have met CCC requirements.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - College Option/Hunter Focus

Type
Completion Requirement

Earn at least 12 credits
The Hunter Focus consists of 12 credits total. The composition of these credits will vary depending on the student's matriculation status and language proficiency. All students are required to complete the Foreign Language requirement; after that is met, students begin Concentrated Study.

Exceptions:

- Students in the School of Nursing may fulfill their entire 12 credits of Hunter Focus by taking three "STEM variant" science courses in addition to the STEM courses used to fulfill the Common Core.
- Students with a joint major in Education may fulfill their entire 12 credits with courses in Education.

Hunter Focus: Foreign Language

Students must attain fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language. For students with no prior language courses, this proficiency typically consists of completing four courses or a total of 12 credits. Students who have prior language courses, including those from high school, should consult an adviser. Students may apply only one course at each level (Elementary level 1, Elementary level 2, Intermediate level 3, and Intermediate level 4) toward the Hunter Focus. Intensive courses can be used to satisfy the two-course sequence at the Elementary and at the Intermediate levels.

Hunter Focus: Concentrated Study

Once students have completed the Foreign Language requirement, any credits remaining from the 12 required for the Hunter Focus will be used on Concentrated Study. Concentrated Study refers to courses that fulfill requirements for a declared minor, a second major or a certificate. The number of credits required for Concentrated Study ranges from 0-12 and is determined by the number of credits in a foreign language a student must take.

CREDITS OF FOREIGN LANGUAGE NEEDED	CREDITS OF CONCENTRATED STUDY NEEDED
3	9
6	6
9	3*

For students who matriculated prior to fall 2019, these three credits are waived.*

For students who matriculated in fall 2019 or after, and who do not also complete a second major, minor, or certificate program, these three credits shall be from a course, at the 200-level or above, on a topic related to the language used for the Foreign Language requirement, in the target language or in English translation.*

Transfer Students

All transfer students must complete the Hunter Focus. For students who first matriculated in an associate program, the number of credits required in the Hunter Focus varies with the number of credits transferred.

CREDITS/DEGREES TRANSFERRED	CREDITS/REQUIRED
Fewer than 30	12
30 or more, without an AA/AS degree	9
AA/AS degree	6

Students who first matriculate in a baccalaureate program must complete 12 credits of Hunter Focus. Any "College Option" credits completed at another CUNY senior college will be applied to the Hunter Focus.

Hunter Focus: Foreign Language

Transfer students must reach or work toward fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language. The number of credits needed to complete the Foreign Language requirement is determined by the student's transfer status, as defined above, and language proficiency at the time of matriculation. Students who have prior language courses, including those from high school, should consult an adviser.

Hunter Focus: Concentrated Study

Once transfer students have completed the Foreign Language requirement, any credits remaining from the Hunter Focus will be used on Concentrated Study as described above.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - Pluralism and Diversity

Type
Completion Requirement

Fulfill ALL of the following requirements:

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group A

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of non-European societies, particularly those of Africa, Asia, Latin America or those indigenous to the Americas.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group B

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives, immigrant experiences and/or intellectual traditions of one or more of the following groups in the United States of America: African Americans, Asian Americans, Latino Americans and Native Americans.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group C

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of women and/or issues of gender or sexual orientation.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group D

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of Europe, including the ways in which pluralism and diversity have been addressed.

Additional Comments:
Students must complete four courses designated for the Pluralism and Diversity Requirement, one from each of four categories. The four categories of Pluralism and Diversity focus on major practical or theoretical issues that emerge from, are reflected in, or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives, and/or intellectual traditions of the following:

A. Non-European societies, particularly those of Africa, Asia, Latin America, or those indigenous to the Americas;

B. One or more of the following groups in the US: African Americans, Asian Americans, Latino Americans, and Native Americans;

C. Women and/or issues of gender or sexual orientation;

D. Europe, including ways in which pluralism and diversity have been addressed.

Any one course with a Pluralism and Diversity designation can satisfy only one Pluralism and Diversity category but may also fulfill any other requirement.

Transfer Students

Transfer students must take at least two courses designated for different categories of the Pluralism and Diversity requirement. The number of courses required in Pluralism and Diversity is determined by the number of credits transferred.

CREDITS TRANSFERRED	COURSES REQUIRED
Fewer than 31	4
31 or more	2

Any one course with a Pluralism and Diversity designation can only satisfy one Pluralism and Diversity category but may also fulfill any other requirement.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - Writing Intensive

Type
Completion Requirement

Complete at least 1 course in the following course sets:

- Writing Intensive

Transfer Students

Transfer students must take at least one Writing Intensive course, designated with a “W” in the catalog, at Hunter College. The number of Writing Intensive courses required is determined by the number of credits transferred.

CREDITS TRANSFERRED	"W" COURSES REQUIRED
Fewer than 30	3
31-59	2
60 or more	1

Note: Specific sections of courses containing significant writing are listed with a W designation in the Schedule of Classes. Please note that not all sections of a course are necessarily offered with significant writing. To satisfy the Writing Requirement a section designated as W in the Schedule of Classes must be taken.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Major Requirements - Overall

Type
Completion Requirement

Earn at least 30 credits
Majors are required to take 30 credits in Political Science, at least one course in each of the four following subfields of the discipline:

1. American Government
2. Political Theory
3. Comparative Politics
4. International Relations

POLSC 29400 courses may not be used to satisfy the 4-subfield requirements.

Majors must complete at least three 300-level courses (from any subfields).

No more than 6 credits in internship, independent study, and/or experiential courses (such as Model United Nations) may be used to satisfy the 30 credits in the major. Also, such credits may not be used to satisfy the distribution requirements in the four fields. Only a letter grade (A, B, C, D, including + or -) will be accepted by the department for courses applied towards the major. Students cannot receive a grade of P/NC in any course used for the major.

  - No more than three credits in independent study (POLSC 29001-29003) can be used to satisfy the minor. Internship credits may not be applied toward the minor.

Additional Comments:

- The minor in Political Science is designed to provide students with solid grounding in political science and to encourage them to develop depth in the discipline in an area that will complement their major or develop expertise in an area of particular interest to them.
- The minor in Political Science allows students considerable flexibility in designing a minor that will best serve their academic goals. Students may, for instance, wish to focus on courses dealing with European politics and foreign policy to complement a major in a European language and culture.
- Students may concentrate their courses in one field of political science, or spread them across several fields. Students may consult an advisor in the Department of Political Science about their goals as they choose courses to satisfy the minor.

POLSC 20403 - Special Topics: African American Political Thought (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Special Topics: African American Political Thought

Catalog Description
This course explores the intellectual history of African-American political thought through an examination of responses to classic questions of political theory such as the role of the state, human nature and its (im-)perfectibility, positive law, and normative thought. These questions are posited within a framework that Michael Dawson calls “black political ideologies.” These ideologies take shape in confrontation and negotiation with the question of black identity around the location of race, class, gender, and sexuality. It also examines the relationship of African-Americans to the conception of citizenship within American political thought, and how the liberal and republican traditions coexist with ascriptive hierarchies that unveil questions of oppression and hierarchy within the nature of American society. Readings traverse the ideologies of liberalism, feminism, nationalism, Black Power, and Marxism. This course is structured both thematically and historically.

POLSC 20408 - Environmental Political Theory (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Environmental Political Theory

Catalog Description
This course examines competing answers to a set of core questions: to what extent are humans a part of nature? How should humans interact with their environments? In what ways are environmental issues always already political ones? The course will examine these questions through a number of different intellectual traditions and conceptual approaches, with special attention to the intersections of race, class, gender, and colonialism in each. In particular, the course will center the work of feminist and indigenous scholars as we deal with the environmental issues that arise in the context of Western liberal democracy, the Anthropocene, and global climate change.

POLSC 21600 - Democracy and the Media (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Democracy and the Media

Catalog Description
Democracy requires free and independent media to inform citizens, hold officials accountable, and encourage party competition on public policy. This courseexamines how well U.S. news organizations do so. It also analyzes how media influence public opinion through agenda setting and framing, identifies sources ofmedia bias (such as organizational routines, private ownership, reliance on official sources, sexism, racism, and partisanship), and assesses how the rise of socialmedia, digital technologies, and disinformation campaigns have affected these patterns.

POLSC 21730 - The Supreme Court: Bad Opinions and Great Dissents (3 cr)

General

Course Title
The Supreme Court: Bad Opinions and Great Dissents

Catalog Description
This is a course in American Constitutional Law but one with a twist. Courses in this area typically involve reading the majority opinions of the US Supreme Court. Instead, my class will concentrate on dissenting opinions. Most dissents have little influence and are soon forgotten. But some have been very important in changing the direction of the Court and have overturned past precedents. It is these dissents that we will read and which will provide the basis of the work in the course. The dissenting opinions will cover a variety of constitutional subjects: slavery, racial segregation, freedom of religion and speech, the rights of the criminally accused, and economic and social regulation by the state and federal governments.

POLSC 22000 - Globalization and Opposition Movements (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Globalization and Opposition Movements

Catalog Description
This course assesses the effects of economic globalization in a wide range of areas in both industrialized and non-industrialized countries. Areas may include global warming, deforestation, North-South inequality, hunger and poverty, environmental degradation, the erosion of social capital, the spread of consumer culture, population growth, global resource limits, workers' and women's rights, and immigration. Positive and negative effects of globalization are assessed, including those on the natural environment, social equality, economic security, and the quality of life. Introduces radical, reformist, and neo-liberal perspectives on these problems. Analyzes the causes and consequences of movements that arise in opposition to globalization and its effects.

POLSC 27206 - Globalization and Cities (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Globalization and Cities

Catalog Description
This course will introduce students to the study of the cultural and political production of cities through a series of compelling case studies. The Euro-American greats will be introduced in the first part of the course so that we may establish an understanding of what are considered as developed or first world cities. Quite intentionally, the course will then shift to pursue a discovery of the cities of the developing world or third world. This critique will focus not only on the city itself but also the very dichotomy between developed and developing cities, all in the intention of destabilizing the distinction between first and third worlds.

POLSC 27322 - The Politics of International Human Rights Enforcement (3 cr)

General

Course Title
The Politics of International Human Rights Enforcement

Catalog Description
A focus on the political dimensions of international efforts to ensure accountability for human rights violations. We will examine both highly visible institutions (such as the International Criminal Court and the UN Human Rights Council) and those with a lower profile (such as the World Bank's accountability compliance office). The changing ways in which state and non-state actors engage with this array of institutions will be a particular focus. Throughout the semester, students will be responsible for identifying specific country cases with respect to each accountability mechanism, and reporting back to the class — orally and in writing — on the facts, processes, outcomes, and lessons of the cases they have studied.

POLSC 27324 - Democratic Peace Theory (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Democratic Peace Theory

Catalog Description
The Democratic Peace (hereafter DP), or the absence of wars between democracies, is one of the more significant findings to have emerged within International Relations scholarship in recent decades. It has consequently attracted significant and critical attention of a large body of scholars and policy-makers alike. In this course we will examine the history of the idea, its main empirical claims, the explanations for it, the auxiliary claims and the criticisms of the research. While the methodological slant will be on quantitative research, we will also examine issues of research design as well as historical case studies as appropriate. Issue areas that will be covered includes: the Kantian origins of the DP, the dyadic level of analysis, the normative, institutional, and informational explanations of the DP (three sessions), the capitalist peace, the DP as a research program, auxiliary relationships of DP (democracy in war, in covert action and in human rights), criticisms of the DP as well as the challenge of democratization.

POLSC 27390 - Global Challenges (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Global Challenges

Catalog Description
Global policy challenges for the U.S. and the world abound and are not difficult to recognize. However, what ideas and strategies can be identified to help alleviate such critical issues? What resources, mechanisms and actors (e.g., states, international institutions, public and private organizations) are available and what incentives motivate or discourage different forms of action? What are the known costs and constraints, and to what extent can tradeoffs and unintended consequences be managed? This course uses international relations concepts and theories to explain how global policy challenges are addressed and the factors that promote or impede international cooperation. Students will explore various international relations approaches to how the world works and their different perspectives on the ways and extent to which global policy challenges can be resolved. Students will also research and write a paper on a global policy challenge of their choice.

POLSC 29403 - America and the Rise of Isis (3 cr)

General

Course Title
America and the Rise of Isis

Catalog Description
This class examines the sweep of twentieth-century American policy in the Middle East, then focuses on the politics and history after the Cold War and how it has affected the rise and potency of the Islamic State. The bulk of the course addresses issues surrounding the U.S. wars in Iraq from 1990 to 2011, the American approach to Syria, and the tangle of international and non-state actors in the region since the fall of Saddam Hussein. We seek to understand the potential and the limits of U.S. actions, and Western influence in general, in the region.

Special Topics: Religion and the Constitution

Catalog Description
This course examines the First Amendment's Establishment and Free Exercise Clauses. The two Religion Clauses continue to be a focus of controversy in the legal and political arenas. The course will examine Supreme Court opinions interpreting the Religion Clauses. Topics arising under the Establishment Clause include prayer in public school classrooms, religious symbols on public property, and government funding of parochial school education. Topics arising under the Free Exercise Clause as well as statutory analogs for freedom of religion such as the Religious Freedom Restoration Act include the rights of members of a religion to be exempt from compulsory education laws and the rights of religious objectors to be excused from legal requirements such as compliance with the Affordable Care Act and anti-discrimination laws.

POLSC 29420 - Special Topics: Social Welfare Politics in the US (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Special Topics: Social Welfare Politics in the US

Catalog Description
This course provides an introduction to core concepts, theories, and debates in social policy, with a focus on the origins and development of US social policies up to today. In doing so, students will gain tools to critically analyze emerging policy responses to multiple crises of the current pandemic, climate change, and contemporary racialized, gendered, capitalism. We will use historical comparative perspectives to highlight distinctive aspects of the US welfare state/system, including its heavy market orientation to addressing human need and life course risks. We will also use critical race and intersectional feminist theories to illuminate how social policies shape, and are shaped by, ideologies of domination, power relations, and institutional inequalities. Readings and interactive class discussions will guide students to connect theoretical frameworks to empirical research and concreate case studies drawn from different policy areas. Throughout the course, we will pay close attention to the interrelations between economic, social, and political change, welfare state restructuring, rising inequality, and the growth of extreme poverty over recent decades in the US. Throughout the semester we will consider future alternatives for US social policy and how students might construct transformative policies informed by social justice and anti-racist principles and practices.

POLSC 30417 - Political Interpretation on Meaning and Power (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Political Interpretation on Meaning and Power

Catalog Description
What does knowledge consist of in the realm of politics? How is it discovered, interpreted, and produced? Is knowledge in politics radically unlike knowledge in other areas of life? Does it exist at all, especially if the public realm is warped by powerful news makers and profit-seeking information technologies? This course focuses on how we seek knowledge about the political world through interpretation, and how its meanings are importantly shaped, or distorted, by power. Ancient and modern texts (from Plato to Nietzsche, Weber, Popper, Arendt, Foucault, and feminism) will set the context, after which we turn to questions how political power inflects social knowledge today -- how we understand and acquire it, and how we use it to differentiate truth from falsehood in public life.

POLSC 37350 - Power, Capitalism, and Difference: Critical International Relations (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Power, Capitalism, and Difference: Critical International Relations

Catalog Description
This course approaches central themes of International Relations through a critical lens. Critical analyses involve exposing structures - underlying forces -that organize political,social,and economic life. Scaled to the level of international relations, critical perspectives highlight important influences on world order; on the persistence of nation-states; international conflict; the administration of aid; and the expansiveness of capitalism as a political-economic system. In combination, these forces shape contemporary life, and decisions about life, across a global political landscape. In other words, the course explores structured relations of power and economy, often resulting in domination and exploitation, and how such political configurations create (and limit) efforts to change the exercise of power on the global scale. The course navigates these themes through a series of units, each building upon the last: 1} Power & Globalization; 2) Capitalist Political Economy; 3) Post-Colonial World(s); 4} Race, Gender, and Difference; 5) The Politics of Development; 6) Emergency; and 7) Climate Change.

POLSC 37389 - Global Power Shifts: Rising Powers, The United States and World Order (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Global Power Shifts: Rising Powers, The United States and World Order

Catalog Description
This seminar will be grounded in theoretical debates about the implications of power shifts for international stability and the character of world orders. We will also consider lessons from historical cases but our principal empirical focus will be on the current challenge to the US-led order from emerging powers, particularly China.

Psychology Department

Overview

Psychology is concerned with all aspects of the study of behavioral, developmental and cognitive processes, and employs a broad spectrum of approaches, from the social to the biological to understand them. The Hunter College Psychology program reflects the diversity of psychology as a science and as a profession. Its course offerings span this spectrum from clinical, social and developmental psychology to experimental psychology, ethology, biopsychology and behavioral neuroscience. Although Psychology is a large department, students have personal contact with faculty members through an extensive advisement system, involvement in departmental activities and committees, supervised field placement and participation in research laboratories under the guidance of faculty mentors as part of our independent study, honors, BP-ENDURE, MARC (Minority Access to Research Careers) & MBRS/RISE (Minority Biomedical Research Support/Research Initiative for Scientific Enhancement) programs. A broad range of applied and research opportunities are available within the department in developmental psychology, social psychology, human adjustment, animal behavior, physiological psychology and abnormal psychology. Departmental affiliations with mental health and community organizations make it possible for students to integrate their academic studies of personality, abnormal and child psychology with supervised practical experience by means of field placements and opportunities for applied research. The faculty and facilities of various subprograms within the CUNY Psychology doctoral program and our master's program in General Psychology and in Animal Behavior and Conservation are integral parts of the Hunter College Psychology program. These programs provide course concentrations in a number of different areas within psychology and offer undergraduate students research and other opportunities to interact with graduate students. Qualified students in their last semester may be admitted to graduate courses with the approval of the instructor and the department's graduate adviser.

What can I do with my degree in Psychology?

The Psychology major, as part of the bachelor's degree program, prepares the student for many career possibilities in psychology, education, social and welfare services, health services and industry and fulfills the course requirements for entering most psychology graduate programs. A background in psychology combined with special training in other disciplines within the college may be especially useful in preparing for careers in human resources, medicine, law, nursing, speech pathology, social work, special education, counseling and music, art and dance therapy.

Transfer Students

- Transfer students who have earned an AA/AS degree from an accredited institution, including CUNY, and who matriculated in fall 2013 and after will have fulfilled the Common Core.
- For all other CUNY transfer students, any unmet Common Core requirements must be completed while matriculated at Hunter.

- Non-CUNY transfer students without an AA/AS degree should confer with their adviser to determine whether they have met CCC requirements.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - College Option/Hunter Focus

Type
Completion Requirement

Earn at least 12 credits
The Hunter Focus consists of 12 credits total. The composition of these credits will vary depending on the student's matriculation status and language proficiency. All students are required to complete the Foreign Language requirement; after that is met, students begin Concentrated Study.

Exceptions:

- Students in the School of Nursing may fulfill their entire 12 credits of Hunter Focus by taking three "STEM variant" science courses in addition to the STEM courses used to fulfill the Common Core.
- Students with a joint major in Education may fulfill their entire 12 credits with courses in Education.

Hunter Focus: Foreign Language

Students must attain fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language. For students with no prior language courses, this proficiency typically consists of completing four courses or a total of 12 credits. Students who have prior language courses, including those from high school, should consult an adviser. Students may apply only one course at each level (Elementary level 1, Elementary level 2, Intermediate level 3, and Intermediate level 4) toward the Hunter Focus. Intensive courses can be used to satisfy the two-course sequence at the Elementary and at the Intermediate levels.

Hunter Focus: Concentrated Study

Once students have completed the Foreign Language requirement, any credits remaining from the 12 required for the Hunter Focus will be used on Concentrated Study. Concentrated Study refers to courses that fulfill requirements for a declared minor, a second major or a certificate. The number of credits required for Concentrated Study ranges from 0-12 and is determined by the number of credits in a foreign language a student must take.

CREDITS OF FOREIGN LANGUAGE NEEDED	CREDITS OF CONCENTRATED STUDY NEEDED
3	9
6	6
9	3*

For students who matriculated prior to fall 2019, these three credits are waived.*

For students who matriculated in fall 2019 or after, and who do not also complete a second major, minor, or certificate program, these three credits shall be from a course, at the 200-level or above, on a topic related to the language used for the Foreign Language requirement, in the target language or in English translation.*

Transfer Students

All transfer students must complete the Hunter Focus. For students who first matriculated in an associate program, the number of credits required in the Hunter Focus varies with the number of credits transferred.

CREDITS/DEGREES TRANSFERRED	CREDITS/REQUIRED
Fewer than 30	12
30 or more, without an AA/AS degree	9
AA/AS degree	6

Students who first matriculate in a baccalaureate program must complete 12 credits of Hunter Focus. Any "College Option" credits completed at another CUNY senior college will be applied to the Hunter Focus.

Hunter Focus: Foreign Language

Transfer students must reach or work toward fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language. The number of credits needed to complete the Foreign Language requirement is determined by the student's transfer status, as defined above, and language proficiency at the time of matriculation. Students who have prior language courses, including those from high school, should consult an adviser.

Hunter Focus: Concentrated Study

Once transfer students have completed the Foreign Language requirement, any credits remaining from the Hunter Focus will be used on Concentrated Study as described above.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - Pluralism and Diversity

Type
Completion Requirement

Fulfill ALL of the following requirements:

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group A

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of non-European societies, particularly those of Africa, Asia, Latin America or those indigenous to the Americas.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:
- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group B

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives, immigrant experiences and/or intellectual traditions of one or more of the following groups in the United States of America: African Americans, Asian Americans, Latino Americans and Native Americans.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group C

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of women and/or issues of gender or sexual orientation.

AND

Earn at least 3 credits from the following:

- Pluralism and Diversity Requirement – Group D

A course focusing on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues (e.g., artistic, economic, geographic, literary, political, scientific or social) that emerge from, are reflected in or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives and/or intellectual traditions of Europe, including the ways in which pluralism and diversity have been addressed.

Additional Comments:
Students must complete four courses designated for the Pluralism and Diversity Requirement, one from each of four categories. The four categories of Pluralism and Diversity focus on major practical or theoretical issues that emerge from, are reflected in, or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives, and/or intellectual traditions of the following:

A. Non-European societies, particularly those of Africa, Asia, Latin America, or those indigenous to the Americas;

B. One or more of the following groups in the US: African Americans, Asian Americans, Latino Americans, and Native Americans;

C. Women and/or issues of gender or sexual orientation;

D. Europe, including ways in which pluralism and diversity have been addressed.

Any one course with a Pluralism and Diversity designation can satisfy only one Pluralism and Diversity category but may also fulfill any other requirement.

Transfer Students

Transfer students must take at least two courses designated for different categories of the Pluralism and Diversity requirement. The number of courses required in Pluralism and Diversity is determined by the number of credits transferred.

CREDITS TRANSFERRED	COURSES REQUIRED
Fewer than 31	4
31 or more	2

Any one course with a Pluralism and Diversity designation can only satisfy one Pluralism and Diversity category but may also fulfill any other requirement.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - Writing Intensive

Type
Completion Requirement

Complete at least 1 course in the following course sets:

- Writing Intensive

Transfer Students

Transfer students must take at least one Writing Intensive course, designated with a “W” in the catalog, at Hunter College. The number of Writing Intensive courses required is determined by the number of credits transferred.

CREDITS TRANSFERRED	"W" COURSES REQUIRED
Fewer than 30	3
31-59	2
60 or more	1

Note: Specific sections of courses containing significant writing are listed with a W designation in the Schedule of Classes. Please note that not all sections of a course are necessarily offered with significant writing. To satisfy the Writing Requirement a section designated as W in the Schedule of Classes must be taken.

PSYCH 39043 - Emotion Function and Dysfunction (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Emotion Function and Dysfunction

Catalog Description
How can it be that emotions are so important for surviving and thriving but are also at the heart of so many mental disorders? Our focus will be on understanding the role of emotion in both functional and dysfunctional contexts. Recent cognitive, social, neurobiological and theoretical advances in the area of affective sciences have important implications for our understanding of psychopathology. Readings, lecture, discussion, and in and out of roomclass exercises will be geared towards building an understanding of major psychological disorders through the lens of emotion theory and research. Since many disorders are integrally linked to core emotions such as fear and sadness, anxiety and mood disorders will receive the bulk of attention in this class.

Romance Languages Department

Overview

The Department of Romance Languages at Hunter College offers language, culture and literature courses in French, Italian, Spanish, as well as literature and culture courses in English. Our degrees include the undergraduate major and master's degrees in French, Italian and Spanish. We also offer a Romance Languages major that combines knowledge and understanding of two Romance literatures and cultures. Besides these offerings, the department has added a major concentration in Spanish-English/English-Spanish Translation and Interpretation, an expansion of its vision of providing professional training within the context of traditional liberal arts.

What can I do with my degree in Romance Languages?

The department is committed to equipping students for professional life: it has continued Hunter's tradition in teacher preparation. Most students majoring in one or two Romance languages pursue careers in education. Others enter careers in the fields of commerce, tourism, interpretation and translation and international affairs, among others.

Transfer Students

- Transfer students who have earned an AA/AS degree from an accredited institution, including CUNY, and who matriculated in fall 2013 and after will have fulfilled the Common Core.
- For all other CUNY transfer students, any unmet Common Core requirements must be completed while matriculated at Hunter.
- Non-CUNY transfer students without an AA/AS degree should confer with their adviser to determine whether they have met CCC requirements.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - College Option/Hunter Focus

Type
Completion Requirement

Earn at least 12 credits
The Hunter Focus consists of 12 credits total. The composition of these credits will vary depending on the student's matriculation status and language proficiency. All students are required to complete the Foreign Language requirement; after that is met, students begin Concentrated Study.

Exceptions:

- Students in the School of Nursing may fulfill their entire 12 credits of Hunter Focus by taking three "STEM variant" science courses in addition to the STEM courses used to fulfill the Common Core.
- Students with a joint major in Education may fulfill their entire 12 credits with courses in Education.

Hunter Focus: Foreign Language

Students must attain fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language. For students with no prior language courses, this proficiency typically consists of completing four courses or a total of 12 credits. Students who have prior language courses, including those from high school, should consult an adviser. Students may apply only one course at each level (Elementary level 1, Elementary level 2, Intermediate level 3, and Intermediate level 4) toward the Hunter Focus. Intensive courses can be used to satisfy the two-course sequence at the Elementary and at the Intermediate levels.

Hunter Focus: Concentrated Study

Once students have completed the Foreign Language requirement, any credits remaining from the 12 required for the Hunter Focus will be used on Concentrated Study. Concentrated Study refers to courses that fulfill requirements for a declared minor, a second major or a certificate. The number of credits required for Concentrated Study ranges from 0-12 and is determined by the number of credits in a foreign language a student must take.

CREDITS OF FOREIGN LANGUAGE NEEDED	CREDITS OF CONCENTRATED STUDY NEEDED
3	9
6	6
9	3*

For students who matriculated prior to fall 2019, these three credits are waived.*

For students who matriculated in fall 2019 or after, and who do not also complete a second major, minor, or certificate program, these three credits shall be from a course, at the 200-level or above, on a topic related to the language used for the Foreign Language requirement, in the target language or in English translation.*

Transfer Students

All transfer students must complete the Hunter Focus. For students who first matriculated in an associate program, the number of credits required in the Hunter Focus varies with the number of credits transferred.

CREDITS/DEGREES TRANSFERRED	CREDITS/REQUIRED
Fewer than 30	12
30 or more, without an AA/AS degree	9
AA/AS degree	6

Students who first matriculate in a baccalaureate program must complete 12 credits of Hunter Focus. Any "College Option" credits completed at another CUNY senior college will be applied to the Hunter Focus.

Hunter Focus: Foreign Language

Transfer students must reach or work toward fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language. The number of credits needed to complete the Foreign Language requirement is determined by the student's transfer status, as defined above, and language proficiency at the time of matriculation. Students who have prior language courses, including those from high school, should consult an adviser.

Hunter Focus: Concentrated Study

Once transfer students have completed the Foreign Language requirement, any credits remaining from the Hunter Focus will be used on Concentrated Study as described above.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - Pluralism and Diversity

Type
Completion Requirement

The Hunter Focus consists of 12 credits total. The composition of these credits will vary depending on the student’s matriculation status and language proficiency. All students are required to complete the Foreign Language requirement; after that is met, students begin Concentrated Study.

Exceptions:

- Students in the School of Nursing may fulfill their entire 12 credits of Hunter Focus by taking three “STEM variant” science courses in addition to the STEM courses used to fulfill the Common Core.
- Students with a joint major in Education may fulfill their entire 12 credits with courses in Education.

Hunter Focus: Foreign Language

Students must attain fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language. For students with no prior language courses, this proficiency typically consists of completing four courses or a total of 12 credits. Students who have prior language courses, including those from high school, should consult an adviser. Students may apply only one course at each level (Elementary level 1, Elementary level 2, Intermediate level 3, and Intermediate level 4) toward the Hunter Focus. Intensive courses can be used to satisfy the two-course sequence at the Elementary and at the Intermediate levels.

Hunter Focus: Concentrated Study

Once students have completed the Foreign Language requirement, any credits remaining from the 12 required for the Hunter Focus will be used on Concentrated Study. Concentrated Study refers to courses that fulfill requirements for a declared minor, a second major or a certificate. The number of credits required for Concentrated Study ranges from 0-12 and is determined by the number of credits in a foreign language a student must take.

Teacher Education Pathway

Students planning to teach this subject in grades 7-12 should look at the School of Education: Program List for information about their programs that lead to the recommendation for New York State Initial Certification required to be a lead teacher in NYS public schools.

Honors

Students qualified to graduate with departmental honors must take an honors course or equivalent approved by the departmental advisers. Departmental honors will be conferred upon a recommendation from the appropriate departmental committee. Candidates must present a paper of at least 7,000 typewritten words in the language of specialization. Consult the department for further information.

Graduate Study

Qualified seniors with a minimum GPA of 3.5 in their discipline may be admitted to graduate level courses. After consultation with an Italian adviser, permission must be secured from the chair and then forwarded to the dean. Consult the graduate catalog for requirements and regulations.

Study Abroad

All study abroad programs are open to students from Hunter College and other accredited institutions. Majors and minors in the Department of Romance Languages are strongly encouraged to participate in study abroad programs (see adviser for GPA requirements). Qualified students can apply for financial aid and STOCS grants. Hunter in Italy: Other Study Abroad options can be discussed with an Italian adviser. Winter Program Hunter in Florence, held during January intersession, offers courses and Italian Culture and Literature taught in English.

Transfer Students

- Transfer students who have earned an AA/AS degree from an accredited institution, including CUNY, and who matriculated in fall 2013 and after will have fulfilled the Common Core.
- For all other CUNY transfer students, any unmet Common Core requirements must be completed while matriculated at Hunter.
- Non-CUNY transfer students without an AA/AS degree should confer with their adviser to determine whether they have met CCC requirements.

2nd Degree Students

- Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the General Education requirements

Degree Requirements - College Option/Hunter Focus

Type
Completion Requirement

Earn at least 12 credits
The Hunter Focus consists of 12 credits total. The composition of these credits will vary depending on the student's matriculation status and language proficiency. All students are required to complete the Foreign Language requirement; after that is met, students begin Concentrated Study.

Exceptions:

- Students in the School of Nursing may fulfill their entire 12 credits of Hunter Focus by taking three "STEM variant" science courses in addition to the STEM courses used to fulfill the Common Core.
- Students with a joint major in Education may fulfill their entire 12 credits with courses in Education.

Hunter Focus: Foreign Language

Students must attain fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language. For students with no prior language courses, this proficiency typically consists of completing four courses or a total of 12 credits. Students who have prior language courses, including those from high school, should consult an adviser. Students may apply only one course at each level (Elementary level 1, Elementary level 2, Intermediate level 3, and Intermediate level 4) toward the Hunter Focus. Intensive courses can be used to satisfy the two-course sequence at the Elementary and at the Intermediate levels.

Hunter Focus: Concentrated Study

Once students have completed the Foreign Language requirement, any credits remaining from the 12 required for the Hunter Focus will be used on Concentrated Study. Concentrated Study refers to courses that fulfill requirements for a declared minor, a second major or a certificate. The number of credits required for Concentrated Study ranges from 0-12 and is determined by the number of credits in a foreign language a student must take.

General

Course Title
Folklore and Literature

Catalog Description
Students will be introduced to basic concepts of literature and folklore to increase, through a comparative study, their understanding and appreciation of both art forms. Works in English of major Russian writers such as Pushkin, Gogol and Pilnyak will be read in juxtaposition with folklore genres in search of how literary texts mirror folklore subjects. European, African, and South American literature and folklore will be introduced for comparative purposes.

COMPL 38004 - Italian American Women Writers and Artists: Issues of Identities (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Italian American Women Writers and Artists: Issues of Identities

Catalog Description
Students will read works by leading Italian American women writers, including Helen Barolini, Rita Ciresi, Tina De Rosa, Diana di Prima, Louise De Salvo, Maria Mazziotti Gillian, Agnes Rossi and Rose Romano, in order to explore the cultural identity of Italian American women and the way it affects artistic expression. The attitude of these writers towards gender and ethnicity, which shapes and is shaped by their race, nationality, class and sexual orientation will be examined. The students will learn about the contribution of Italian American wormen in the fields of cinema and visual arts through the works of such artists as B. Amore, Renata Gangemi, Luisa Pretolani, Kym Ragusa and Nancy Savoca. For further enrichment, students will visit relevant exhibits, view movies, and meet some of the most inspiring representatives of the Italian American intellectual community.

Course Title
Compar Std Ee Cinema: Polish, Czech, Russ., So. Slavic. Discuss Cultural, Politcl., Historic Aspects

Catalog Description
The course is a comparative study of cultural, political, and historical aspects of Russian, Polish, Czechoslovakian, Romanian, and East German cinema as a visual art form. The course examines samples of East European cinema addressing a respective country's history and social conditions starting with World War II time and covering both the Communist era and post-Communist period. By the end of the course, students will acquire critical tools to provide an informed verbal and written analysis of East European films as cultural texts.

ITAL 27700 - Food Culture: The Italian Revolution (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Food Culture: The Italian Revolution

Catalog Description
This class examines the relation among food, culture and social issues with a particular focus on Italian cultural production – including literature – and Italian food movements focused on sustainability and regenerative agriculture. Reflecting on topics ranging from the history of Italian food to questions of identities and global environmental crisis, students discuss the idea that food is not only a medium for sustenance but also a source of nonphysical nourishment, a catalyst for community engagement, and a connection to the eco-system. The course includes a unit of the Italian American experience and hands-on experience with the local Slow Food community. In English. Prerequisite: English 120.

ITAL 33900 - Italian American Women Writers and Artists: Issues of Identities (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Italian American Women Writers and Artists: Issues of Identities

Catalog Description
Students will read works by leading Italian American women writers, including Helen Barolini, Rita Ciresi, Tina De Rosa, Diana di Prima, Louise De Salvo, Maria Mazziotti Gillian, Agnes Rossi and Rose Romano, in order to explore the cultural identity of Italian American women and the way it affects artistic expression. The attitude of these writers towards gender and ethnicity, which shapes and is shaped by their race, nationality, class and sexual orientation will be examined. The students will learn about the contribution of Italian American wormen in the fields of cinema and visual arts through the works of such artists as B. Amore, Renata Gangemi, Luisa Pretolani, Kym Ragusa and Nancy Savoca. For further enrichment, students will visit relevant exhibits, view movies, and meet some of the most inspiring representatives of the Italian American intellectual community.

PORT 34100 - Portuguese and Brazilian Literature (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Portuguese and Brazilian Literature

Catalog Description
Students will read some of the masterpieces of Portuguese and Brazilian literature. Presented in chronological order, this survey of the tradition touches on key intellectual, social, and political developments that marked literary production in Portuguese, notably the colonization of Brazil and the birth of its own literary tradition. The course fosters creative writing as well as critical thinking through literary analysis. The course is taught in Portuguese.

SPAN 37123 - The Literature of Memory in Latin America (3 cr)

General

Course Title
The Literature of Memory in Latin America

Catalog Description
The course studies literary and filmic texts shaped by the upheavals of the period of military dictatorships in Latin America, from the late 1970s through the 1990s. Some of the questions raised by this rich corpus are the following: How can political violence be represented artistically? What are the limits, ethical and otherwise, of such representations? How does memory shape and define our understanding of traumatic historical events? After devastation, how can literary and filmic texts contribute to mourning and community building?

SPAN 38200 - Consecutive Interpretation, Spanish-English and English-Spanish (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Consecutive Interpretation, Spanish-English and English-Spanish

Catalog Description
Students will be expected to develop and expand on their pre-interpreting skills: proficiency in both source and target languages, expansion of vocabulary (general, technical, regional, colloquial) and idiomatic expressions, and acquisition of knowledge in diverse fields to enhance subject familiarity, thus enabling ""sense prediction"" (anticipation of where logic leads), that will ultimately facilitate task performance. They will develop listening and recall skills through short-term memory exercises that focus on sequencing, visualization, and chunking. Emphasis will be placed on the need to retain both language and meaning. Students will learn about and develop a system of note taking as an additional tool aid memory. They will learn how to correct errors and request clarification.

SPAN 38400 - Simultaneous Interpretation, Spanish-English and English-Spanish (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Simultaneous Interpretation, Spanish-English and English-Spanish

Catalog Description
Communication issues will be discussed so that difficulties will be better understood and expected. The components of good quality will be thoroughly treated, in particular the concept of fidelity. Through intensive practice of short simultaneous passages, students will try to accurately reproduce meaning in the target language without distortions, omissions, additions or inappropriate literalism. They will learn to identify and produce correct language register and style. They will analyze the different syntactic structures of English and Spanish through pattern sentences (expressing time, distance, emotion, sequences of adjectives, etc.) and learn to restructure units of thought (parts of sentences) so that greatest flexibility is maintained. The relation between interpreting and performance will be discussed. Students will learn to handle ""stage fright"" or stress related to multi-tasking at increasing speeds with diverse subject matter. The concept of ""coping tactics"" will be explored. Students will receive feedback and direction from teachers and listen to fellow students. The teacher will establish a mutually supportive atmosphere in

SPAN 38600 - English and Spanish Translation 2 (3 cr)

General

Course Title
English and Spanish Translation 2

Catalog Description
The English and Spanish Translation 2 course builds upon the foundational knowledge acquired in SPAN 38500, offering an in-depth exploration into the intricacies of translating between English and Spanish. Emphasizing the application of theories and techniques learned in the first class, this advanced course challenges students to work with more complex text types. Through a series of workshops and practical exercises, participants will navigate the intricacies of advanced literary, technical, and specialized content, further honing their translation skills. The course aims to deepen students' understanding of cross-cultural communication and linguistic nuances while exposing them to a broader range of real-world scenarios. By working with more challenging texts, students will expand their proficiency in producing accurate and culturally nuanced translations, solidifying their expertise in bridging the linguistic gap between English and Spanish.

SPAN 39400 - Professionalization for Translators and Interpreters (3 cr)

General

Course Title
Professionalization for Translators and Interpreters

Catalog Description
This course deals with the multifaceted landscape of the language services industry, exploring the various roles and career paths it offers. Students will gain a comprehensive understanding of the language services field, covering key areas such as freelance translation and interpretation, in-house positions within language service providers, and the critical function of project management. Through a systematic examination of industry essentials, this course equips students with the knowledge required to make informed career choices. Topics include the advantages and challenges of freelancing, the role of in-house language service positions, and the principles of project management within this context. Ethical considerations, the importance of specialization, and quality assurance standards are also explored. Furthermore, students will learn practical skills for marketing their language services, building professional networks, and understanding the legal and contractual dimensions of the industry. The course concludes with a focus on career development strategies, continuing education opportunities, and practical steps to advance in the field.

School Of Arts & Sciences Department

Overview

The School of Arts and Sciences at Hunter College provides its students with opportunities to pursue a meaningful and challenging undergraduate and graduate education in the arts, humanities, social sciences, and natural sciences. Students from diverse backgrounds study with distinguished and dedicated faculty in the classroom, in the laboratory, in the studio, and in the field. The School promotes outstanding teaching and up-to-date research, and actively supports both as key components of strong major programs. Through its course offerings and its advising resources, including pre-professional advising in business, health, and law, the School of Arts and Sciences works to advance student success across the entire college.

The School, Hunter's largest, consists of over 460 full-time faculty in 26 departments and ten interdisciplinary programs, and serves approximately 15,000 undergraduate and 4,000 graduate students. Faculty members of the School of Arts and Sciences continually develop new courses of study that reflect their wide range of interests and expertise. In addition to vibrant majors in disciplines such as art, English, psychology, and chemistry, the School is home to interdisciplinary programs in Archeology, Asian American Studies, Bioinformatics, English Language Arts, Women and Gender Studies, Comparative Literature, Jewish Studies, Religion, Urban Studies, Latin American and Caribbean Studies, and supports programs in Human Rights and Public Policy.
